

Your Fire Department Sounds LIS Siren

What does the loud wail of a siren do to you? Does it make your heart jump to your throat? Does it make you run to see what is happening?

No doubt everyone has a secret desire to ride on a fire engine, racing at breakneck speed, with red lights flashing and sirens screeching their warnings. Yes, it is exciting. Take it from some who know - your fire department.

That first trip to a fire and the excitement that follows is a great thrill, as is perhaps the second and third; but as time goes on, the thrill wears thin and is replaced by work and danger.

Your fire department is made up of volunteers who have been approved by your town officials. They are men who are sober, and men that can be depended upon to be at the right place at the right time. Not one of them receives or expects to receive any compensation, yet each man leaves his job at your call and endangers his life and health to serve you.

Your Fire Department operates on a deficit basis. No charges for services are made; yet any person in his right mind would know that there are operating expenses which have to be met in some way. The Town of Bailey has been keeping the Fire Department alive by paying for the most necessary expenses. Nine of every ten fires are outside the city limits.
