

Principal Weaver Heads Educational Institution Project

Principal M. W. Weaver was named chairman of the committee of Educational Institution during a meeting in the Municipal Building, at which time plans were mapped to make Bailey a better town. The contest is inspired by the "Finer Carolina" program sponsored by the Carolina Power and Light Company.

Plans to improve the school include the building of the lunchroom and the home economics department. When this is done, the old lunchroom will again be used for an auditorium balcony, and the home economic department will then become a science room.

As part of the ground beautification program, the agriculture boys will soon have shrubbery planted in the yard.

Mr. Weaver hopes to have toilets built upstairs for the use of the high school students.

Another phase of this committee's work to help improve the looks of the school and ground, is the grading of the yard and removing the old pump house.

The contest lasts until November 1, 1952 and dates back to November 1, 1951.
