

Have You

BY LOIS ROMAINE THIGPEN

Heard-----Mrs. Lassiter has entered 72 on her 6th period study hall?

The seniors have already measured for their caps and gowns?

There are 14 members on the journalism staff?

That two freshmen, George Thigpen and Elton Wells, felt that the school bus ran so slow they could out run it? Of course the school bus won, but for a while it was a close race.

Mrs. Lassiter found it necessary to stand in a chair to measure the senior boys?

Seen-those be-oo-o-ti-ful class rings?

How well the new style, elastic belts, look on Vivian Glover, Billie Faye Perry, Rena Bissette, Betty Lou Glover, Nelda Mae High, and Gloria Dew?

Genevieve Glover's pretty pastel sweaters, especially the lavender and pink?

Carolyn Bissette's new fall red-rust dress? It's really pretty.

Subscribed-----to the Bailey Bugle or Bailey News? Well it's hi-time you did!

Noticed-----how friendly all freshmen are?

How well Miss Oglesby wears artificial flowers.

Miss Edith Farmer continues to display the following sign on her door "Miss Farmer--Senior-Math."

Some missing class rings? Judy Finch?

Frank Brown not only visits at school but eats lunch in the lunch room too.

Elem. Hi-Lites

Out of the 395 elementary students, 65 are beginners.

Emogene Turner, seventh and eight grade teacher, is an additional teacher gained as a result of the attendance record last year. Miss Turner, '52 graduate from A. C. C., is teaching for the first time.

Several of the first graders, as is always the case, howled in harmony the first few days of school. To many of these beginners school was a new and horrifying experience. One beginner, Marlon Boykin, however, decided he didn't like school and just wasn't going to stay.

This fact Marlon proved by running away three times in one day.

There are 65 beginners in the elementary grades and 65 freshmen in high school.

Bailey Bugle Goes To The Fair

Because of the record attained throughout the years by the BAILEY BUGLE, the staff was asked to be responsible for the high school newspaper exhibit at the Nash County fair.

Other high school exhibits deal with sports, bands, glee clubs, and dramatics.

Four booths were allotted the Nash schools. One is used by the primary grades, one by the lower elementary grades, one by the upper elementary grades,

Class Keeps Rabbit, Squirrel

Animals of all descriptions are beginning to make Mrs. J. P. Underwood's sixth grade class room resemble a zoo.

A baby flying squirrel no longer than a finger, is kept wrapped in a towel in Mrs. Underwood's room. Mrs. Underwood feeds the squirrel milk out of an eye dropper. "I want to keep the squirrel until it is old enough to care for itself," states Mrs. Underwood.

Brenda Thigpen, third grader, brought Mrs. Underwood a baby rabbit, which a neighbor found while bailing hay.

Students are continually bringing Mrs. Underwood wild animals from the fields and woods.

"Co-operation of pupils and teachers in the Bailey lunchroom is the best it has been since I have been working," declares director.
