Making Dresses Consumes Class Periods

Personal grooming and sewing are activities now pursued by the three home economics classes.

Freshmen classes are studying grooming; sophomores and junior classes are engaged in sewing.

Demonstrations on the care of hair, the care of the hands and nails, and studying face shapes relating to the individual, consume the freshmen class periods.

Previously taking up color suitable to the individual coloring, studying materials and patterns, the second year girls have finished their wool skirts, weskits, and jumpers.

Junior and senior girls, after reviewing sewing terms and colors becoming to the person, are making wool dresses, suits, and blouses.
