Shop Students Turn Out Home Articles

Hammers and saws drone as students build numerous articles for the home as shop projects.

Building bookcases are MARSHALL HIGH, BILLY GLOVER, JOHN ROBERT LAMB, LEONARD GLOVER, THOMAS MCKEEL, and CHARLES ISSETTE.

BOBBY DEW is making a radio end table. RONALD BISSETTE and LEWIS BISSETTE have made a large number of wall racks.

KURT STONE, DOUGLAS BROWN, NEWTON GLOVER, and BILLY GLOVER are all engaged in making magazine racks.

BRUCE FERRY is building a cedar wardrobe, while BILLY BUNN, RICHARD DEMENT, DANNY GLOVER, DWIGHT GLOVER, JERRY HIGH, LACK LAMB, BRUCE FERRY, JAMES WILSON, and HARVEY DENTON are making cedar chests.

State Srs. To Teach At Bailey

Two seniors from State College will begin their practice teaching in the Bailey vocational agriculture department following the Christmas holidays.

Garmon and Terrel of State College will devote most of their time to instructing lower classmen.

Freshmen Initiated

Freshmen F.F.A. members were "punished", last Tuesday night at a weiner roast and initiation for being new members of the club. The "pranking" took place in the agriculture building.

This year's initiation was different from last year's because the usual amount of horse play was not added.

A weiner roast followed the ceremonies in which the rolls were heated by "TEXAS PETE."

The question of the week is: Who splashed the stain on MACK LAMB'S cedar chest?

Judges Anticipate Possible Winner

Chairman Le Croy of the agricultural committee of the Rocky Mount Chamber of Commerce and Nash County farm agent Hollowell, judges of the Nash-Edgecombe corn growing contest, recently checked over the crop of the Chapter's leading corn grower and remarked that it was the best they had seen thus far.

"From this observation LEWIS BISSETTE may be eligible for first or second prize in the Nash-Edgecombe contest," says "Boss."

Lewis used Dixie 82 seed corn and produced 107 bushels to the acre.
