

The Successful Farmer of Tomorrow Is The Future Farmer of Today

Father-Son Banquet First in New Cafeteria

Class Sees Showing of Permanent Fencing

Fences which will last was the idea demonstrated by JIM PHILLIPS and HOWARD ELLIS, January 26 on the farm of AUTHUR BROWN. The junior-senior agricultural class and many of the farmers in that area turned out for the demonstration.

On that Monday morning PHILLIPS, of the U. S. Forestry Service, opened the demonstration by showing how to peel a post. Second, he explained the steps in preserving and the type of preservation to use on the posts.

Following, ELLIS of the Agriculture Engineering Extension, demonstrated the correct way to put up a fence, stressing putting up one that will last.

Assistant County Agent TAYLOR and Advisor WELLS arranged this showing.

Supervisor Makes Check

A visit was paid the Bailey agriculture department the first week in February by T. B. ELLIOT from Woodland. ELLIOT is the district supervisor of agriculture teachers.

W.H. Clark has explained tobacco grading to all classes.
