Bugle Keeps Rating Of Previous Year

VOL. 13, NO. 7, BAILEY, N.C., MARCH, 1953

Again the Bugle attained the highest rating, the Medalist, offered by the Columbia Scholastic Press Association by ranking as the best in its respective group of those papers rating first place.

This is the second successive year the paper has reached this goal. The exact grade will not be known until it appears in the convention's "School Press Review."

STAFF CHAIRMEN

Two staff members acted as chairmen of two sectional meetings.

LOIS THIGPEN presided over "The Sharing of Responsibility-Staff and Adviser"; MARY ANN EDWARDS, editor, served as chairman of "A Top-Notch Job of Interviewing."

Thursday and Friday the staff members attended lectures, clinics, and roundtable discussions dealing with all phases of journalistic work.

PRESS LUNCHEON

Climaxing the three-day convention was a luncheon in the Grand Ballroom of the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, Saturday. Guest of honor was the famous SARAH CHURCHILL. Speakers at the luncheon were HONORABLE ERNEST A. GROSS, United States Representative to the General Assembly, United Nations, and GENERAL CARLOS P. ROMULO, Philippine Ambassador to the United States.

Students Assume Office Duties

Office work and calls are taken care of by five senior girls and one junior girl, since PRINCIPAL WEAVER is occupied by class duties the entire morning.

The senior girls are CAROLYN HOWELL, GERALDINE STRICKLAND, MAGALINE WILLIAMS, FRANCES CARROLL, and JOYCE WILLIAMS. PEGGY LILES is the junior.

These girls work in the office on their own free will. If they file, type, or write letters, they are paid at the rates of 50 cents an hour. This is paid by a $15 per month clerical account allotted to each principal by the County Board of Education.

Open House Successful

Favorable comments and "large attendance" on the part of the parents proved the third annual Open House "to be a success" at the March P.T.A. meeting, according to Principal M. W. Weaver.

Observing work displays, hearing an interesting musical program, and touring the new building were features of the program.

Principal Weaver says, "We have had Open House three years, and we hope it will become a permanent activity. It is good public relations."

Staff Works For Reasonable Fee

Bugle staff members have helped with community advertisements for a nominal fee by making two separate sets of handbills for the town merchants and one for the Bailey Feed Mill.

Usually WAYNE LAMM, with the aid of a typist, cuts the stencils for outside work, while MARY ANN EDWARDS and LOIS THIGPEN run off the stencils.

FEE

To date any extra work done for the benefit of the community was done for a reasonable fee, adding to the Bugle treasury little beyond the cost of paper, stencils, and ink.

The staff believes that in the future, if it continues doing this work, the time element required in cutting the stencils and doing the mimescope work should be given more remunerative consideration than has been the case in the past.
