

Work Reveals Variety In Elm. Classes

Obvious in the elementary grades is the variety of school work activities disclosed through displays, reports all who visit these rooms.

While students of Mrs. Jim Underwood, Miss Mary Frances Owens, Mrs. Florabelle Bynum, and Mrs. E. H. Paschall continue the study of wildlife, those of Mrs. Emma Gunter, Miss Alice Hardy, Mrs. R. G. L. Edwards, and Mrs. Altermise Glover carry on a variety of enterprises.

BEACH SCENE

Making May baskets filled with candy and pop corn and covered with flowers are a part of the activities engaged in by Mrs. Glover's class. Second grade children are also working on a black frieze illustrating beach scenes. Mrs. Gunter's students display a series of water color pictures showing the probable summer habits of the third and fourth graders.

FLOWER MAKING

Kleenex tissues are used by third grade students of Miss Hardy in the making of carnations; colored crepe paper makes pastel parasols for "April Showers That Bring May Flowers"; tempera paints illustrate stories read by the group; and a creative playground will soon be completed.

In addition to the study of wild flowers, Ann Brock, Phyllis Manning, Gail Joyner, Harold Patterson,

Topsy Tops Again

Topsy's Sonny Boy, the white and foam-colored English male bulldog belonging to KEITH VICKE, came up for his second time with five first-place ribbons in the annual dog show at Grower's Co-operative Warehouse in Wilson, North Carolina.

The Keyette Club of Charles L. Coon High School and the Wilson Kennel Club, both of Wilson, were sponsors for this event. It was held from 1 to 5:30 p.m. and 8 to 9:30 p.m. on April 25.

PLANS

The 14-year-old owner has plans for her two-year-one month old dog. "If it is possible and convenient, I plan to enter him in dog shows throughout the state. Next year I hope to again receive winning ribbons from the Wilson dog show," KEITH stated.

In addition to the first-place ribbons won by him last year, Sonny Boy received a trophy for Junior Showman-ship.

Congratulations,
Seniors

May each one of you have a future filled with success
and happiness.
