

Mother of Fourth Grader To Graduate With Senior Class

Madeline Perry discovered she needed bookkeeping to help her husband keep records for the store and cafe. After taking typing and bookkeeping last year, she became interested in finishing her high school education.

Last summer she found she needed shorthand in order to get the job she had in mind. While taking shorthand, she discovered she lacked only one unit, English IV, to graduate.

The students and teachers have encouraged Madeline in every way and tried to make her feel as one of the senior class, she declares.

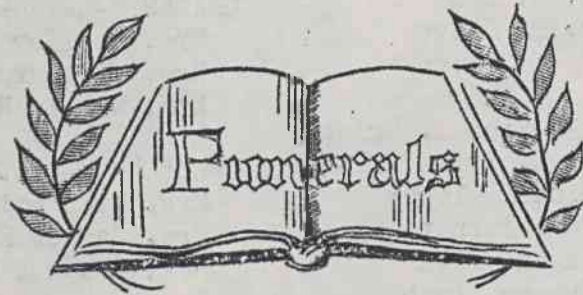

Her husband, Willard

Perry, is happy for her to better her education so that she can assist him with his store and cafe. He and her son, James Willard Perry in the fourth grade, think that she should not miss a single day of school.

Madeline is a great church worker. She is president of the Ladies Auxiliary of White Oak Hill church. After leaving school in 1944 to marry, she returned this year to finish her high school education.
