

Principal Reporting

M. W. Weaver

Did you know that you can be your own worst foe, most serious problem, greatest liability, most severe critic, and greatest stumbling block? Did you also know that you can be your own best friend, most helpful counselor, best booster, and greatest asset?

Each of us has to decide which of these qualities will triumph. They are in constant conflict while we decide between what we want to do and what we should do. Self-mastery is of tremendous importance. One must learn to control thoughts, decisions, choices, actions. The richest rewards in life go to those who master themselves.

SELF-CONTROL

You can make a worthwhile contribution to your personal development by encouraging every noble aspiration, repressing every undesirable thought, withholding every bitter word, resisting every temptation. Victory over self is not easy but is so very important. It takes determination to conquer self, to uncover and root out undesirable thoughts and to substitute right habits of conduct. It is difficult but can be done.

Dwight L. Moody said, "I have more trouble with myself than any other man I have ever met." Was he speaking for many of us?

Bear in mind that a person must realize that he alone is responsible for his own words, his own conduct, his own action, his own life--he is the designer, the architect, the builder of his own destiny. Each of us selects the blueprint for his life. Each decides whether his actions build a prison or a palace.

Shakespeare says, "This above all: to thine own self be true, and it must follow, as the night the day, thou canst not then be false to any man."

All of us need a definite stern course of self-discipline; a constant re-strengthening of character; a high level of spiritual desires; a tight reign on our emotions and a firm resolve to rule out all but wholesome thoughts from our minds. We must develop a strong mental attitude that will prepare us to cope with all life's situations.

A person cannot run from himself. Where he goes, his problems go. "Know thyself," "To thine own self be true." Put first things first.

AUDITORIUM TO GET CURTAINS

$1118 was raised to put curtains at auditorium windows.

Bailey

IN APPRECIATION

In behalf of herself and family, Mrs. Kermit Lewis wishes to thank the faculty, students, members of the community--all friends for the many kind words expressed and thoughtful acts performed during the illness and death of her husband.

USED BY MORE GOOD HOUSEKEEPERS THAN ANY OTHER RANGE

BeautyMaster
Your Heilig & Meyers
Store Guarantees You
More For Your Money
Heilig & Meyers
"For Wise Buyers"

Wilson, North Carolina

FOR THE LATEST IN AN

Italian Boy
Bob

Let
Modern Beauty Shop
Do It

North Carolina