

School To Purchase $370 Worth Of Library Books Soon

For the purchase of library books this year the school has $370.

Money for this purpose came from the fifty-cent library fee students paid in the fall, the surplus on the high school supplementary fee, and the county's matching the school's money.

According to M. W. Weaver, principal, $154 will be spent to add additional books to the high school library, and $216 will be used for the elementary school library.

Each high school teacher is allotted the sum of $17 to purchase books for her department; each elementary teacher, $18. Any amount teachers do not use will be consumed by the English department.

Meeting Mixture Of Fun, Business

While drinking cold drinks and eating candy, the juniors chose their class colors, flowers, and motto at a special meeting on Thursday, November 12.

Red and white became their class colors.

Their flowers are the red rose and the white carnation.

"They conquer who believe they can," was the motto selected by the class.

As a means of making money for the class, plans for a junior play were discussed and also a paper drive to get old papers to sell to the Roanoke Rapids Pulp Mills.

Mrs. Howard Farmer and Miss Idalia Oglesby will go to the Text Book Commission Warehouse in Raleigh to purchase the high school teachers' selected books, if they're available.

A committee yet to be named from the elementary school will make the purchases for the elementary library.
