

Revelation Of The Billfold

By Carolyn Finch

What a girl would do without a billfold is about to become a $64 question. She uses it for more purposes than its original intention - to hold money.

Packed in almost every available space will be pictures-pictures of "that certain Boy" (sometimes more than one if he's very special) and of school-mates one wishes to remember in afteryears.

Dates (there are more than one variety) are kept by marking a calendar slipped in among the pictures.

Frequently the billfold becomes a bulging wad due in part to the comb, lip stick, and mirror therein, indicative that the owner likes to primp.

There are always notes that one prizes stored away in some hidden corner. Woe to the one who takes a peep here!

At this time of year there will probably be basketball schedules or some other sports schedule for keeps throughout the sports season.

Anyone would think that the future poetic field will be governed by women if the number of poems found within a billfold can be taken as an indication of the interest in poetry. (I'd hate to be the one to judge on the literary merit of most of these poems.)

Most wallets carry an identification card, and how wise is the person that does so! The owner would usually hate for it to get into another's hands.

STUDY OF EUROPE

Besides carrying on the routine classwork, Mrs. J. P. Underwood's class has been studying European countries. More than half of the class can fill out an outline of Europe.

SHIPBUILDING

Mrs. Harvey Evans class are reliving the days when the world was thought to be flat and ships were the main means of transportation by making ships to illustrate Columbus' and designing a pioneer table. Christmas decorations are up in all rooms.
