TEN IMPERATIVE NEEDS

What are the needs of youth? They are many and varied. The Educational Policies Commission of the National Education association says that youth has ten imperative needs in the educational field. It is the duty of the school to satisfy these needs both by direct teaching and by example.

The Ten Imperative Needs of Youth are:

1. To develop saleable skills and those understandings and attitudes that make the worker an intelligent and productive member of society.
2. To develop and maintain good health and physical fitness and mental health. The student has a responsibility here to do the things he knows best for him. He should eat properly, get the needed sleep and rest, and refrain from the use of harmful drugs.
3. To understand the rights and duties of the citizen of a democratic society, and to perform their duties as members of the community and citizens of the state and nation.
4. To understand the significance of the family and the conditions necessary for successful family life.
5. To know how to purchase and use goods and services intelligently.
6. To understand the methods of science, the influence of science on man, and the main scientific facts about the nature of the world and of man.

7. To have an opportunity to develop their capacities to appreciate beauty, in literature, art, music, and nature.

8. To be able to use their leisure time well and to budget it wisely, doing the things that are satisfying to the individual and useful to society.

9. To develop respect for other persons, to grow in their insight into ethical values and principles, to be able to live and work co-operatively with others, and to grow in moral and spiritual values.

10. To grow in their ability to think rationally, to express their thoughts clearly, and to read and listen with understanding.

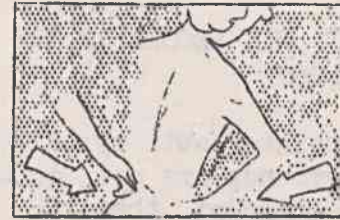

Your school is striving to meet these needs of youth. Co-operation from the church, the home, the school, and all community agencies is necessary in order for the school to do its best job.

NEW EQUIPMENT

A new electric slicer has been added to the lunch room equipment.

To meet the demand for a telephone booth in Bailey to eliminate other people's using private telephones, the town board gave the order for one.

The booth is located beside the Municipal Building, where it may easily be seen by everyone.

Build up your strength tonight and you will have a better tomorrow.
