

What's In A Name?

"What's In a Name" features bus drivers this month.

Driving number 1 for the school is WAYNE B. FINCH, or "Runt." One and Runt both in number and size have something in common--diminutiveness; but, as we all know, two like forces combined give strength. Thus it is with bus number 1 and its driver.

TED MORRIS, driver of number 3, has a name that implies courtesy, dependability, consideration, and modesty, as all Morris' attending Bailey High have revealed these qualities.

CORNELIUS BOYKIN is the driver of bus 35. Boy, kin he drive, not only a bus, but also a ball!

For the Glovers--DANNY, JULIAN, and DWIGHT--drivers of buses 49, 5, and 62, their name is representative of one of the three most-often-heard names of the community, and for these boys a name that speaks friendliness.

Driving another bus is ANDREW SHERROD. Andrew the disciple, leading others, saying little to anyone, surely fits our Andrew of Bailey.

In the case of the Perry drivers--RAYFORD and JERRY--the name is deceptive, for the two boys are quite different in many respects, thus proving that one can't always tell "What's In a Name?"

School Attendance On Increase

During the fourth month of school attendance on the whole continued "good", as there were 14 rooms having an attendance of above 90%, as reported on the official record.

Those having a tie of 97% attendance in the grammar grades were Mrs. Sarah S. May's 5th grade with nine absent and Mrs. R. G. L. Edwards's with 17 absent. Having a tie with 96% attendance in high school were Miss Edith Farmer's group with 26 absent and Mrs. Lassiter's with 31 absent.
