

They Know Their Job

There are a few Bailey students whose school record is very creditable. This is particularly true of those who answer present each morning.

These students are to be commended. They have learned to discipline themselves to the point that they can crawl out of bed every morning regardless of feelings or weather. They have learned to plan and organize their activities so that they are never out to go to town, clean house, run the tractor, go to the dentist, or what have you.

Students of this type are an asset to any school, and they play an important part in establishing the attendance record. The effort they put forth is beneficial not only to the school but to themselves, for no student that is here every day rarely, if ever, fails his school work.

All this is proof that some students know what their job is, where it is, and when it is to be performed.

Favorite Students' Sayings

Buddy, have a drink!
 I'm going to slap your jaws.
 That tears me all to pieces.
 Sure 'nough?
 Really?
 Oh, hush your mouth.
 Well, I'll be continental!
 You don't mean it?
 Ah, fiddlesticks!
 And I dropped my big orange drink!
 Oh, No!
 Ugly as gouch!

Echoes Of The Present

(Gleaned from snatches of conversations heard)

By Stella Jones

Journalism class' trip to New York.
 Who won the ballgame.
 Teasing seniors over banquet.
 Junior play.
 WHO did you go out with last night?
 How are you going to the ballgame tonight?
 Are you going to the movies tonight?
 How did you make out on the test?
 What have you done to your hair?
 Let me borrow your paper.
 What are you doing to-night?
 WHO did you go with?
 Haven't you something new?
 Who was that I saw you with last night?
 Have you heard that new song that's out? (It's the prettiest thing I've ever heard!)
