

Basic Studies Stressed In Elementary Grades

With the end of the school year only about five weeks away the major concern of the elementary grades is basic studies. Projects are being completed and teachers are trying to accomplish as much work as possible.

Mrs. Effie Hagwood's first graders are reading and studying about pets. They hope to have time enough to make pet books.

KEEPSAKE BOOKS

To show that they have been introduced to certain work, Miss Cleo Eatmon's third graders are making a keepsake book in which they keep a variety of work that they have completed during the year. Easter baskets for their mothers is another project that is underway.

Mrs. R. G. L. Edwards' eighth graders have finished the frieze in history of the transition of America begun earlier in the year. Plaques have been finished also. Other projects have included the construction of geometric designs and the study of the structure of the tree. In addition to the study of the tree booklets were made to illustrate its structure.

SICKNESS

Mrs. Rudolph Glover's second graders have been carrying on their regular classwork. No projects have been started because of so many absences resulting from sickness.

Wild life will be the theme for the new nature project Mrs. Jim Underwood's sixth graders have begun.

Mrs. T. C. May's fourth and fifth graders have completed their frieze on going West. They are also "proud" to announce that they have had 100% for 33 days. The fourth grade boys are equally "proud" to announce that they have had 100% for 65 days.

Mrs. Olivia P. Barnes' second and third graders were honored this month by a visit from a science professor from AC. The purpose of the visit was to observe the students while they had their science class. The information was to help the professor complete his dissertation paper for his doctor's degree.

Miss Rachel Bissette's seventh grade club, "The Golden Eagles", had a weiner roast, March 26.

YOU CAN

Save on Groceries

AT

G. & L.

Super Market

FARMER MOTOR CO.

Bailey, North Carolina

Service

Here

At All

Times!