

Math Exhibit Captures 1st Prize At St. Fair

"Mathematics at Work," an educational exhibit for Nash County from Miss Edith Farmer's Math department of the Bailey School, having won the first prize at the Rocky Mount fair, gave the county the opportunity to carry the exhibit to the State Fair. There it again received first prize and $100.

The money went to the Class Room Teachers Association of Nash County, sponsors of the state booth.

EXHIBIT

The exhibit was set up against a white background edged with a blue border decorated with geometric figures.

In the back ground were two windows, one on each side, decorated with original geometric designs made of colors of gelatin, spot light paper, representing stained glass church windows with appropriate picture designs in the center.

A card table with a geometric designed top was used in the center back of the exhibit.

CENTER SPOTLIGHT

Centering the exhibit was a Christmas tree decorated with solid figures made of colored construction paper and decorated with colors of Christmas sparkle, a project of the General Math Class.

Other figures used were cut from wood, illustrating geometry propositions and postulates.

There were also demonstration boards to illustrate

To complete the exhibit an electric game board, "Formula Quiz", used to study formulas in general math, algebra, and geometry and made by Edwin Finch, was placed in the front center. All fair spectators were invited to test their memory of formulas by playing the game.

COMPETITION

The exhibit competed against all other non-vocational high school exhibits in North Carolina. They were judged on basis of neatness, originality, contribution to class room teaching, student work, and attention received by the spectators.

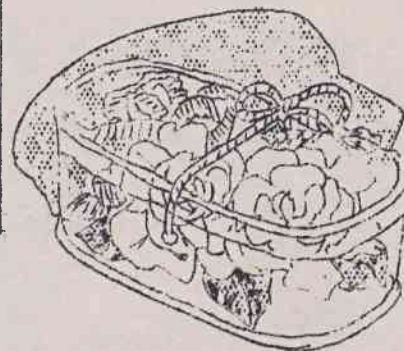

Miss Farmer wishes to thank all those that helped to make this exhibit possible.

man in power to cover their paper routes each day except Sunday.

Rabbit and Man carry The Wilson Daily Times in Bailey each evening. To deliver the paper, both boys have to ride approximately 2-3 miles everyday. Of their 81 subscribers Rabbit has 53 and Man 28.

Rabbit and Man use their money to buy school supplies and for spending money. The boys have been delivering the paper for about three years.

A number of people have asked Rabbit why he folds the paper into squares. He does it so he can throw them easier and the wind won't blow them away. The time he spends to folding the paper is well saved in making the deliveries.
