

Principal Reporting - - - - M. W. Weaver

In a few days, we will be observing Thanksgiving Day again. This is really an American holiday, started many years ago to set aside a special day for giving thanks for the blessings which each of us receives. The official day is now by act of Congress the fourth Thursday in November. The time of the celebration is not the important thing; it is the thought behind the act.

Are you thankful this year? I'm sure that you are. Thankful for what? The list of things for which we can give thanks is long. Let us consider some of them.

HOME

First, there can be the area of the home. We can be thankful for our parents, our brothers and sisters, and for our other relatives. To our parents we owe much. They give us the material things needed for life and in addition those social and spiritual requirements are satisfied which lead to happy, successful living. They give us love, respect, and security. They help us to find our way in the spiritual world by leadership and by setting an example for us.

CITIZENSHIP

We are fortunate in being citizens of a great county and a great state. Our nation allows us freedom of thought, speech, and action. It also protects us from the greed and the "isma" of other countries. Our state gives us protection from internal enemies. It gives us cur school system which enables us to prepare to better ourselves. In this connection let us be thankful for our schools. Come each day with a purpose. That purpose should be to get the greatest good from the opportunities presented to us each day.

We are thankful, also, for the Church and other institutions of our community. They play important roles in our lives.

For all the good gifts that come to us, we are thankful to a gracious and loving God.
