

Eight Girls Lead Cheering Section

Of the eight cheerleaders, three are new members. Six of these eight girls practice every day at the sixth period.

To the old cheers, the cheerleaders are adding new interpretations.

Every day at the sixth period all of the girls except Pattie Sue Thompson and Betty Lou Stallings practice. They usually practice in the gymnasium.

MEMBERS

The three new members are Becky Jo Lamm, Andrea Bissette, and Faye Morris.

Second year girls are Nancy Lee Medlin, Sonja Lamm, Pattie Sue Thompson, and Betty Lou Stallings. This makes Jane Burgess's third year.

LEADERS

Nancy Medlin and Sonja Lamm are the head cheerleaders.

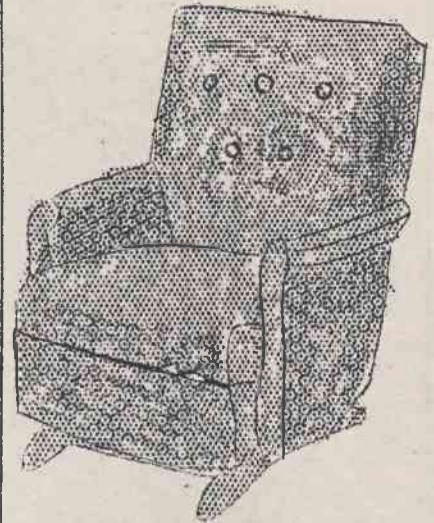

The school furnishes the sweaters and is buying two new ones this year. The girls buy their skirts.

At the end of the first year they get a letter; after that, a star for each extra year.

HE HAS HUNGRY SHOES!

A young boy of the Bailey community was complaining about his shoes eating his socks. He exclaimed, "I wish these shoes would eat when I do!"

He received this sarcastic reply, "If so, you would be grumbling about them being on the table."
