Ag. Teachers Attend Monthly Meeting

Agriculture teachers from all the high schools in Nash and Edgecombe counties attended a regular meeting at the local ag. building last week.

The program dealt with local leadership in the Agriculture Department.

Teachers attending the meeting were F. U. Wolfe, Middlesex; J. E. Lamm, Benvenue; R. A. Stevens, Spring Hope; D. A. Willey, Nashville; John Willey, Coopers; R. M. Bunn, Whitakers; Bill Afford, Red Oak; Fred Langford, West Edgecombe; H. H. Cherry, Leggett; J. T. Abrams, South Edgecombe; T. B. Elliot, woodland; Don R. Rose, South Edgecombe; and the local ag. teacher, John (Boss) Wells.

9th Grade Works On Farm Program

Ninth grade FFA boys have been discussing and working on a supervised farming program for next year and getting acquainted with the farm record books.

Better, efficient-supervised farm programs are the purposes of this work.

FFA Boys Undertake New Project

FFA boys are building a barbecue pit and furnace back of the agricultural building. Work on this project has just begun, although the chapter has been planning to build a pit and furnace for the past several years.

Thelbert Boykin, past president of the local chapter, donated about 500 bricks with which to build the furnace. The boys have cleaned these bricks and have started working on the project.

The chapter plans to barbecue chickens and pigs. Boss Wells reports that after completion the pit and furnace will be available for other classes to use. Ray Fulghum, Henry Brantley, and Jimmy Bennett laid the bricks. Other boys that are helping with the work are Newton Glover, John Robert Lamm, Louis Davis, Thomas McKeel, Ted Morris, Bobby Dew, and Hilton Lamm.

NUMBER IN AGRICULTURE

There are 73 high school boys taking agriculture.
