

Cheerleaders Drill For Basketball Season

BOYS NAME CO-CAPTAINS

Bending, stooping, jumping, whirling--hours of it--prepared the BHS cheerleaders, under the direction of Mrs. Dean Gore Whicker, for the 1956-57 basketball season.

After the first two strenuous practices, there remained only seven girls interested in becoming cheerleaders. This small number eliminated the need for try outs.

This year, the cheerlead-

FAYE LAMM, guard, and KATY HORTON, forward, were voted in as this year's co-captains of the girls' basketball team.

The girls, in deciding to have co-captains, thought it "best" to have each position represented.

"In case of my absence, the co-captains will be in charge of coaching their team and running drills," states Coach W. H. Westall.

Teams Pick Managers

At regular practice sessions the basketball teams decided upon Kaye Wiggs and Jimmy Wells as their managers for this season.

The names of all contenders for this position were put before the teams to vote upon.

Keeping the players' bill-folds and jewelry, taking care of the basketballs, filling the water bucket, and having towels handy are a few of the managers' jobs.

ers are practicing two afternoons a week in preparation for the games. They are instructed by Mrs. Whicker and Lynda Strickland, head cheerleader.

In addition to Lynda, the other leaders are Sara Peole, Audrey Finch, Brenda Fulghum, Sue Weaver, Diane Tapp, Janet Weaver, and Elaine Manning

JIMMY DEW and BOOTS HARRIS were designated by their team members as co-captains of the boys' team.

As the coach pointed out, their duties will be to drill the other members in basketball techniques and procedures during his absence and to set an example for the rest of the team to follow.
