

Students Plan For New York Trip

Where to get the money for the New York trip has been for some time uppermost in the minds of those journalism students planning to attend the CSPA Convention.

Several students are depending on their parents for their money. Two girls received their money as a Christmas present.

Picking cotton was one student's means of obtaining the necessary amount; a farm crop, another pupil's. One boy, working at the Carolina Theater, will be using his salary to defray his expenses, while another has saved some of the money received from burning tobacco.

The trip is estimated to cost about $70-$75 per student. This amount will cover all necessary expenses. Since the class shares equally in any surplus BUGLE funds, the total figure for each person is expected to be reduced somewhat.

FTA TO INVITE N.C. LEADER

Plans were discussed at the January meeting of the Future Teachers Club to ask Miss Helen Wells, state Future Teacher leader, to visit the Bailey Chapter in the near future.

The Middlesex Chapter is invited also to meet with the Bailey Club for a joint meeting to promote increased interests and better relations.

Fiction Leads In Reader Interest

'Fiction and biography appear to be first choice of BHS students when selecting books from the high school library of approximately 2,000 books," asserts Miss Idalia Oglesby, librarian.

In a given week at BHS, only 35 books may be checked out during the entire week, while in another week that number may be checked out in one day.

"The reason for this," states Miss Oglesby, "is that on weeks when book reports are due more books are checked out than any other time."

When a student checks a book out, he is allowed two weeks for reading it. If he has not finished it by the end of the two weeks, he has the opportunity to renew the book for another two weeks.

A student failing to return his book or renew it on time is charged with a two-cent fine for everyday the book is over due.

Miss Oglesby has found that students fail to return their books on time because of "careless misplacing of them or carelessness in not observing the date the book is due."

The average amount of money received from the students monthly in this way is $1.48.
