Journalists Complete Plans For New York Trip

On Tuesday, March 12, the journalism class will leave Bailey for their annual trip to New York City to attend the Columbia Scholastic Press Convention at Columbia University.

There are 13 journalism students who made the required number of points to go, but only 11 of these are planning to take the trip. One typist will join them, making a total of 12 students going.

Four class members did not make enough points to go, should they have so desired.

The class will stop in Washington, Tuesday night, seeing as many of the interesting places there as possible.

They will leave for New York, Wednesday morning, where they will stay until their return trip Sunday.

In addition to attending the convention, the itinerary calls for three theatrical shows, an evening at Radio City Music Hall, a tour of the United Nations Building, the Statue of Liberty, and a shopping tour of the biggest stores.

Total expenses per student will be $72.

This amount includes every expense--meals, hotel bills, travel expenses, theater tickets, registration fees, banquet fees, tips, subway fares, and any other incidentals.

Any student who has school insurance will be covered by this while he is away.
