FHA Presents Program

Panelist answer questions for high school students as girls sponsor program at FHA meeting in the school auditorium.

At the program for the regular meeting last month, the FHA girls sponsored a panel discussion and invited each class to attend. Mrs. Dean Whicker, Miss Idalia Oglesby, Lane Farmer, James Wells, and Kaye Wiggs served as panelists.

Questions for the discussion were taken from boxes that had been placed in various spots over the school for students' convenience.

Boykin, Nancy Dew, Jane Earp, Mary Ella Glover, Arlene Jordan, Faye Lamm, Peggy Braswell, Elizabeth Warren, Louise Wells, and Annette Davis served the supper.

Sisters Help Brothers

For a brief idea of what the FHA and home economics girls have been doing this month, let's take a quick glance at the calendar, schedules, and plans of the group.

- March 6--Serve FFA supper
- March 7--FHA Meeting
- March 8--Sock hop
- March 29--Mother-Daughter Banquet

All senior home economics students are nearing completion of their garments. These garments are, in most cases, dresses with matching coats, or suits.

The sophomores are making skirts.

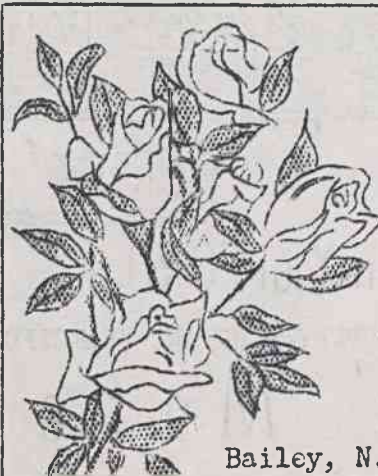

Poor parents, brothers, and sisters! The freshmen are on their foods unit and each girl must cook 42 meals. (Just teasing girls, I'm sure you'll make good cooks.)

Days come and go, each with its new problems, but life goes on around the home economics department as the girls face new units, set new dates, and make new plans.

Fifteen FHA girls served as waitresses for their brother organization, the FFA, at its annual Father-Son Banquet in the school cafeteria on March 6.

A meal consisting of barbecue, boiled potatoes, slaw, corn bread, soft drinks, and coffee was served to 130 fathers, sons, and guests by senior FHA'ers.
