

Students Exhibit Year's Work

Appointed committees from the 11th and 12th grade English, the French, and the journalism classes assumed the task of displaying their work for Open House night.

They gathered material from their personal notebooks and any other places that they had filed it during the school term.

PHASES OF WORK

From this material they portrayed all the phases of work that had been studied this year.

Each class assigned a committee to make up the displays.

Members of each class composing the committees were English IV: Betty Sue Boykin, Mary Ella Glover, Bobbie Lou Batts, Keith

4 JRS. MAKE HONOR ROLL

Fourth grading period has the largest number of students making honor roll.

Juniors led the way with 12, one fourth of their class, attaining the goal. Freshmen followed with five; sophomores, four; seniors, three. A number of students, primarily juniors and freshmen, missed it by having one B+.

The names of those who acquired the honor roll appears on page 4.

Glover; English III: Audrey Finch, Diane Tapp, Sara Ann Peele, Carolyn Glover; French: Louise Wells, Lane Farmer, Bobbie Lou Batts; journalism: Peggy Braswell and Barbara Boykin.

'Fine' Says C. Stott After One Day At BHS

"I may be prejudiced, but I like it fine," says Miss Clara Lou Stott, new eighth grade teacher at Bailey High School.

After graduating from Appalachian State College in Boone, North Carolina, Miss Stott began her practice teaching at Boone Elementary School, Appalachian's own training school.

After completing her practice teaching in Boone, she became this month a member of the Bailey High School faculty. She replaced Mrs. Harvey Evans, who taught the eighth grade.

After one day of teaching 43 eighth graders, Miss Stott expressed her opinion as "fine."
