

PRINCIPAL REPORTING

O. L. PORTER

Living is a daily, one-time process. Yesterday can never be relived, but we can learn and benefit greatly from yesterday's events and experiences.

Have we as students, teachers, parents, and neighbors accepted our responsibilities to improve and help ourselves, friends, and neighbors to achieve expectations that are so vitally necessary in order to create an environment of freedom?

Each of us, as citizens of Nash County and the Bailey Community, have many opportunities to advance our educational levels, raise our standards of living, share, enrich, and create many rewarding relations with our neighbors and fellowmen.

OPPORTUNITIES

One of the greatest opportunities that a young person has is attending public school. It is here that he or she should utilize all possible avenues of the learning process. Educational training and backgrounds are obtained through hard work, studying, application of the scientific process of reasoning and research, and through sharing experiences with our friends.

During the school year, we endeavor to prepare ourselves in an academic manner. Meanwhile, although we may not be aware, we do prepare ourselves in the various traits of character and citizenship such as integrity, dependability, trustworthiness, etc.

Ask yourself, as I do many times, have I taken the opportunities and accompanying responsibilities that have been available to me this year? Have I performed to the best of my ability in all the many things I have undertaken to do?

Usually, the honest answer will be no. If so, you and I should always strive to work more sincerely and diligently toward desired goals and ambitions.

CHALLENGE

I think the 1964-65 Bailey School year has been very successful thus far. The school year is coming rapidly to a close. I extend the challenge to all of us, to make the remaining months some of the most productive.

As all of you and especially the 1965 Seniors, go to accept your role in society, may you always cherish the memories and experiences that you have obtained and shared at Bailey High School.

SPRING FEVER SETS OUR FEET PEDDLING

Various people do different things for fun and enjoyment. John Watson and I did just this. We rode our bicycles a sum of 200 miles during the weekend of the 12th, 13th, and 14th of April, 1963.

It all began the summer before when John and I purchased a bicycle each. We took trips from Bailey to Wilson and various other near by towns. Soon we were headed for Goldsboro, and this turned out to be our stepping stone for longer journeys. During the fall our adventurous spirit took us to the boarders of Virginia on an over-night camping trip at Kerr Lake.

Spring came. Everything was set for a real trip! We were to leave Thursday night, April 11, for Atlantic Beach. That night at twelve o'clock I joined John in Bailey where we began our trip. Our reason for leaving so early was to give us ample time and
