

Juniors Make $136 From "Monsieur Beaucaire"

The Business Manager of the Junior Play took in $258.65. After paying the expenses there was a balance of $136.34 left. This money will go to help defray the expenses of a curtain in the auditorium.

Fifty-five students received passes because they sold five or more tickets. They are: Celeste Adams, Hattie Lee Bordon, Dot Ballard, Phillip Baddour, William Casey, Dot Crawford, Bessie Cooper, Mary Corbitt, Daniel Dale, Ann Dees, Willis Denmark, Frank Daniels, Martha Daniels, Wilborn Davis, Frances Edgerton, Mildred Edgerton, Maurice Edwards, Thelma Ginn, Gertrude Hobbs, Sara Dean Herring, Katherine Kalmar, Osborn Lee, Mildred Lancaster, Louise Moye, Lillian Mooring, James McClenney, Amy Meyers, Frances Massey, Myrtle Musgrave, Ralph Monk, Hubert O'Steen, Bill Peacock, Bill Pate, Easley Pace, Edgar Pearson, James Peacock, Wyatt Pearsall, Edward Peele, Mildred Rawlings, Susan Rose, Robert Simkins, James Smith, Emmett Spicer, Susan Southerland, Janet Sanborn, R. Southerland, Dick Thornton, Earl Waters, Ernestine Waters, Edna Mae Woodard, Elbert Ward, Rosa Willis, Lily Willis, Elizabeth Workman and Clarence Wilkins.

Celeste Adams sold ten tickets which was more than any one else. Dot Crawford and Dot Ballard took second place, each selling nine tickets.

Miss Roark Expresses Her Appreciation to Students

In a recent interview, Miss Roark said that she wanted to express her appreciation in the columns of the Hi News for the assistance a large number of students have given her in the library during this school year. Without their help, she said, she would not have been able to take care of the library.

The students whom she wants to commend are: Virginia Moore, Celeste Adams, Amy Meyers, Frances Edgerton, Maywood Hill, Nannie Jane Robertson, Barbara Best, Corine Manly, Reba Simon, Helen Davis, Kathryn Mitcham, Virginia Bartlett, Thelma Ginn, Ruth Futrell, Sara Hood, Elizabeth Hood, Hazel Montague, Cecil Pate, Fred Smith, and Richard Leggett. There are four students—Leslie Farfour, Richard Thornton, Helen Zealy, Sara Lee Best—who have helped make catalog cards, a very hard and painstaking job.

Quite a few students whose names do not appear in this story have helped at irregular intervals, and Miss Roark wishes to take this opportunity to thank them.

THAT TRIP TO RALEIGH

Well, we've gone and done it. After talking about it all year we finally went! Boy, we had a grand time. We saw Edwards & Broughton, the Raleigh Times, WPTF, Hall of History, etc.—mostly, etc.

We found the merry-go-round and, as all little children must do, we went round on the lions, ostriches, horses, and bears.

Colonel Olds taught us not to say Bath but "Bawth."

We went into a room where most colors looked purple. Dizzy came out singing "Blue Again."

Hi News Receives Rating of Good From N. S. P. A.

The Hi News received a rating of from good to excellent from the National Scholastic Press Association. This rating, based on the October, November, December issues, gives the Hi News second class honors in the N. S. P. A. score book.

Four main points were considered: News values and sources, news writing and editing, editorials and entertaining matter, and headlining, typography, and make-up.

The News received the highest rating on news values and sources and editorials and entertaining matter. The feature columns received special mention.

This rating is very gratifying to some of the members of the class but demonstrates to others the need of more work.

This was a critical service and not a contest, given as a courtesy to all schools belonging to this association.

SEPARATE STAFFS TO EDIT FINAL ISSUES

The last two issues of the Hi News will be edited by separate editorial staffs, one consisting of the junior members of the journalism class, the other of the seniors.

This issue was edited by the junior members of the class. The staff is composed of Edgar Pearson, editor-in-chief; Nora Lancaster, Clarence Wilkins, and Isabell Baddour, assistants; Frances Bass and Corine Manly, news editors; Lois McManus, literary editor; Roy Liles, sports editor; Clarence Wilkins, alumni; Thelma Ginn, clubs; Ruth Smith, music; Frances Bass, exchange; Roy Liles, scout column; Barbara Best, assembly.

The business staff will remain the same in both issues.

Helen Smith Wins $1000 Scholarship to Brenau

Helen Smith, president of the Senior Class, has been awarded one of the $1,000 scholarships given to only 12 incoming freshmen by Brenau College at Gainesville, Ga.

Helen stood an examination here recently to compete for this scholarship. The examination consisted of English, algebra, geometry, and American history.

Mr. Wilson received a telegram Saturday, May 14, saying that Helen was a successful contestant.

To the Lindberghs

By dedicating this issue to the Lindberghs, the staff of the Hi News wishes to express deepest sympathy for the Lindberghs in their bereavement of Charles, Jr.

We did not lose hope even when news was most discouraging, and consequently the news of the child's death greatly shocked us.

We have, as a class, closely followed the news of the kidnapping of the child and have tried to stop all false rumors.

All G. H. S. Entrants Place In State Music Contest

All four of the G. H. S. entrants won places in the State Music Contest, held in Greensboro, April 28-29.

G. H. S. was represented by Barbara Cuthrell, violin; Helen Smith, voice; Brogden Spence, trumpet; James Wharton, baritone. Miss Lillian Stroud accompanied Barbara Cuthrell. Miss Brockwell accompanied the two boys, and a piano student from N. C. C. W. accompanied Helen Smith.

Barbara Cuthrell won third place contesting with others in violin, and Helen Smith won third place in voice.

Brogden Spence won third place in the trumpet solos and James Wharton won fourth in the baritone solos. The following comment was made about Brogden: "This player shows great possibility but needs a good deal of work on both tone production and tonguing. He has the possibilities of becoming a fine trumpet player."

POSTERS ON DISPLAY IN MISS COBB'S ROOM

Many beautiful and interesting posters, dealing with the work of the freshman algebra classes in their work on the unit of Time and in connection with their morning exercises on Character Building, are on display in Miss Cobb's home room.

One of these posters, made by Eleanor Taylor, shows an arrangement of flowers which open at certain hours of the day. Noticing the time when certain flowers open was one of the earliest means of determining time.

Another, "Measuring Time Thru The Ages," by Richard Helms, shows the implements from the very beginning of Time to the present which were used in measuring time.

Still another, "Character Lessons in the Harp of Life," by Janet Newell, shows a harp, each string representing one of the thirty-two good traits of character.

The students and teachers are invited to come in and see these posters, as well as the booklets which Miss Cobb's classes have made.

Chemistry Classes Enjoy Visit to Dewey's Foundry

On Thursday, April 28, the chemistry classes spent what was generally considered the most educational and enjoyable class period of their chemistry course at Dewey's foundry.

G. W. Hallman took charge of the group on their arrival and showed them through the plant.

First the blast furnace was observed. This is a huge tank-like furnace into which calcium carbonate, coke, and scrap iron are thrown. (Please turn to page five)

NINE STAFF MEMBERS ELIGIBLE FOR QUILL AND SCROLL MEMBERSHIP

High School Host to Greenville Visitors

Goldsboro High School was host to six Greenville visitors on Thursday, May 5.

The visitors, Ed Skinner, Carl Joyner, Helen McGinnis, Helen Fern, Rosamond Van Dyke and Tom Wilson were conducted through the school by Susan Southerland, Jerry Derr, Louise Moye, Brogden Spence, Harvey Smith, Martha Peacock, and Ann Dees.

The visitors were most impressed with the cleanliness of Goldsboro High School building and with the new auditorium, saying that the auditorium was the prettiest they had ever seen. They commented on G. H. S.'s fine cafeteria and the orderly classes which they visited.

The visitors showed much interest in chemistry, physics, and journalism classes.

F. H. CLARIDGE SPEAKS ON CONSERVATION

In chapel, Thursday, May 12, Mr. F. H. Claridge, assistant forester of the Department of Conservation and Development of Forests in North Carolina spoke to the school concerning conservation of our forests.

Mr. Claridge spoke of the valuable products we obtain from the forest—turpentine, maple sugar, lumber, and tannin.

He emphasized the fact that the floor of the forest, consisting of tree branches, stumps, and pine needles, protects the earth from being beaten down by the rain, "And," he added, "although I wouldn't say that forests absolutely prevent floods, they help in doing so because the water cannot run off so fast."

"Forests purify the water for fish," Mr. Claridge said. "The trees also affect the climate. Water from trees go off in air and have a cooling effect in the Summer."

He spoke of forestry as a vocation for boys. He said that it was a pleasant job but warned the boys that hard work was attached to it also.

At the conclusion of his talk Mr. Claridge awarded Virginia Crow, a senior, three dollars, the fourth prize in the state-wide contest conducted in the interest of forestry. The title of Virginia's essay was "The Relation of Forests to Our Fish and Game." It was written on senior English class and was a part of the required work for the spring term.

NAMES ARE SUBMITTED

Seven Win Recognition Through Editing Work; Two, By Business Management

The names of nine of the twenty-three members of the Journalism Staff have been submitted by Miss Gordner as being eligible for admission into the Quill and Scroll International Honorary Society for High School Journalists.

The following shows the number of column inches of the seven who have won recognition through their work on the editorial staff.

Florence Baker, 159 inches (6,360 words).

Dorothy Langston, 158 inches (6,320 words).

Isabell Baddour, 149 inches (5,960 words).

Lillian Edgerton, 85.5 inches (3,820 words).

Edgar Pearson, 81.5 inches (3,260 words).

Clarence Wilkins, 64 inches (2,560 words).

Dorothy Hooks, 36 inches (1,440 words).

Fred Smith's and Nora Lancaster's ratings have been based upon their excellent work on the business staff. Dorothy Hooks has been responsible for the majority of the editing and revising. Edgar Pearson has headlined 85 per cent of the news stories. Although given only one assignment, Clarence Wilkins wrote the greatest number of column inches in the auditorium issue, bringing in four additional stories other than his assignment.

For those who are accepted into the society there will be a formal initiation and presentation of the badge.

Miss Beasley's Classes Give Book Reports

Book reports based on different periods of history have been given by each member of Miss Beasley's 6th period World history class.

Each student was given the assignment to read and give an oral report on a book concerning a period of history which has been studied. For the past month several oral reports have been given each day.

Some of the reports which have been given were: "In the Palace of the King" by Crawford, "Ninety-Three" by Hugo, "Ben Hur" by Wallace, "Drums" by Boyd, "Napoleon Bonaparte" by Ludwig, "Tale of Two Cities" by Dickens, "Memoirs of a Physician" by Dumas.

The class decided that the most interesting reports were given by J. C. Johnson, Barden Scott, Ed Bynum, Daphne Hocutt, Paul Borden, Doris Pate, and Susan Southerland.

BACK STAGE

Whata play!

Can that be the haughty, beautiful Lady Mary childishly running around pinning her hair, reddening her cheeks, highly frustrated.

"Hey! You! Don't jab that sword so near me!" hoarsely whispers Beaucaire, forgetting his French accent.

"Lift up, man, lift up! That's my toe under your foot," bellows Captain Badger.

The romantic Booty can be seen in the corner, not-so-romantically threatening to "knock the socks off this dummy!" After much struggling and patient replacing he starts: "Your eyes are limpid pools of imprisoned moonlight," etc. Some line!

His Grace, the Duke of Winterset, is manfully struggling with his monacle, nearly knocking his eye out in the attempt to get it "to stick."

Captain Badger is over in the corner, chest thrown out, as Lady Rellerton counts the buttons, "Loves me, loves me not. . ."

The sophisticated Philip Molyneau hides behind the curtain as (Please turn to page five)

Sammy and Emmett were missed and were found entertaining a blonde.

Nedham Broughton High School has a system of student government which seems to be very effective.

We were treated most cordially at Edwards & Broughton by a pretty blonde and Mr. Beck.

Lunch was eaten at Pullen Park; then we went to the Raleigh-Goldsboro game.
