

Prophecy

engineering friends were coming along, he replied that Randy Middleton had completed civil engineering at Roanoke and is now employed by the State of Virginia. Jack Smith and Hartwell Graham are now working for DuPont, in the ceramic and general departments, respectively, while Kemp Barden, electrical engineer, and William Lassiter, power brake engineer, are both employed by General Motors, Inc. But I had to tell Hawley goodbye, because I wanted to see "old Goldsboro," or the part which was familiar to me, so I found my way out of the building and got to the main drag with the aid of Officer Douglas McDonald, who was telephoning to Police Chief Ben Daniels, and holding up a telephone pole that was holding up Bob Morgan, traveling salesman, and Ed Little, refrigerator repairman.

I bought an evening paper full of news about Homer Ball's latest masterpiece on canvas, Eddie Jackson's explorations in a U. S. Navy submarine, and Aileen Herring's success at the Westminster Choir School. Also I saw Wayman Montague, machinist, walking down the street with W. E. Branch, top-notch mechanic, and I met Marion Brown, cabinet maker, and Cleveland Wiggins, woodworker, right in front of Roscum Byrum's meat market. But all good things must come to an end, so I got in a taxi, and who should be looking through the steering wheel but Gabe Holmes, Jr. Honestly, the way he rushed me toward the airport to catch the Florida Express put Cozart and his "Rob" special in the shade.

All-American Athletes

As we passed the ball park I noticed a mighty large crowd, which, Gabe informed me, was due to the fact that two big-league teams were fighting it out in an exhibition game. I looked in my paper on the sports page, and saw the names of Sidney Gordon, Arlow Triplett, Arthur Stafford, and Jimmie Dillworth in the lineup of the Yankees, and I immediately placed a bet on the other side. But I looked toward the park again and I saw more dust than the whole American League could raise, and I learned from an advertising poster that Troy Hooks was giving a "Lucky Teter" exhibition on a motorcycle. This was too much, so I asked Gabe to hurry up if it was possible. So I paid him at the airport, and said goodbye to Goldsboro, wondering how the class of '39 had come to be running everything.

History

Lillie Burns, treasurer; and Berta Parks, who was cheer leader for the second consecutive year.

Our number had by then decreased to only 164 members. Carolyn Langston took over the duties of editor of the HI NEWS and Addison Hawley those of managing editor; Evelyn Dillon and Grace Hollingsworth, managing editors; Mary Best, business manager; and Mary Frances Barnes and Dot Turlington, circulation managers. Others on the staff were Edith Jones, Frances Yelverton, Hartwell Graham, and Billy McClure.

At the Student Congress meeting in Kannapolis, we were represented by Sidney Gordon, James Kannon, and Jimmy Hampton, who went officially. Those going unofficially were Grace Hollingsworth, Legh Scott, and Francis Joyner.

Initiative began to appear when a group of seniors formed the Senior Dramatic Club and, under the skillful direction of Miss Fowler Spencer, produced the play, "Keep Smiling." The cast was headed by Willie Boykin, who portrayed the part of John Hornsby; Ruth Hinson, who was the Dona Catalina; Frances Yelverton, Lolita; and Jimmy Hampton, Bill Chandler. Others who were in it and their parts are as follows: James Kannon, Don Jose Martinez; Rosette Farfour, Adela; Virginia Parrish, Senora Delores; Margie Wooten, Louise Sayre; Maylon MacDonald, Jack Wilkins; Dot Creech, Manualita; Edith Jones, Lois Sayre; Marvin Daughtry, Bill Sayre; Nat Ballard, Padre Fernando; Louise Kannon, Rufina; Forrest Simmons, Lieutenant Paxton; Mary Daniels, Manuela; and Ernest Glisson, Mateo Garcia. The play proved to be an unusual success and netted the class a considerable sum of money. All the senior classrooms worked hard on the sale of tickets, and each person did his part.

When President Roosevelt spoke in Woolen Gymnasium in Chapel Hill on December 5, 1938, delegates from GHS were James Kannon, president of the class, and Carolyn Langston, editor of the HI NEWS.

In our final year we had a number who participated in sports. There were five senior girls on the basketball team: Marjorie Sutton, Ann Johnson, Virginia Parrish, Doris Flowers, and Margie Wooten, with the latter as captain. A senior, J. R. Nickens, led the boys' basketball team, and three others, Gorman Lawrence, Glen Johnson and Wilton Hollowell, were members. The football team captured seven seniors, and swimming took four. Those on the football team were: Willie Boykin, Ernest Burton, Marvin Daughtry, James Kannon, Glen Johnson, Maylon MacDonald, and Billy Powell. The swimmers were Tinker Heyward, Randy Middleton, Ed Shumate, and Lewis Tilghman. We had ten boys on the junior football squad: Charles Liles, J. R. Nickens, Billy Hood, Hayward Privette, Addison Hawley, John Watson, Jack Smith, Gorman Lawrence, Tinker Heyward, and Legh Scott. In track Francis Joyner and Jimmy Dillworth were co-captains and J. C. Smith, R. T. Cozart, and Kemp Barden were on the track team. In baseball we had 14 seniors: Glen Johnson, Clarence Grudger, Gorman Lawrence, Arlow Triplett, J. R. Nickens, Earl Montague, Rudolph Pate, Sidney Gordon, Billy Hood, T. L. Ginn, Richard Ball, A. K. Robinson, James Howell and Ernest Burton.

In February Willie Boykin was elected the most representative boy in GHS.

One of the largest and most successful events of our senior year was our Senior Banquet. We had a very interesting and delightful program and most of our class was present to enjoy the fun that centered around the Valentine theme.

Two seniors—J. R. Nickens and Arlow Triplett—participated in the 150-piece N. C. High School Band, which played in Raleigh at the State Teachers Meeting on March 17.

On the N. C. State High School examinations seven seniors scored over a hundred. They were Jimmy Hampton, Margaret Bryan, Dot Creech, Hugh Dortch, Olivia Ferguson, Legh Scott, and Frances Yelverton.

One of the bigger events and one looked forward to by every one was the tapping of new members into the National Honor Society. On May 5, eight seniors received this significant honor. They were: Frances O'Steen, Legh Scott, Evelyn Dillon, Evelyn Colie, Willie Boykin, Dot Creech, Jimmie Hampton and Marjorie Stenhouse.

On May 26 we had our annual Senior Picnic at Camp Tuscarora. We left at 11:30, the girls taking the lunches and the boys the drinks. We all went swimming and although it rained later on, we enjoyed the outing, even the rain seasoned sandwiches and the dripping hair.

With the end drawing near we started our class night program. Having written the play, we cast it and started rehearsals. Mid ups and downs the work progressed as "The Fantastic Farce" became a reality.

Four long and valuable years we have spent here in this school. They are slowly drawing to a close. With a few more days we will be gone. May each of us find the door to success and may we succeed in opening it.
