

First Fishing Trip Recalled

by Faye Parnell

I'll never forget my first fishing trip. After hours of untangling fishing lines and digging fish hooks out of my clothes, we finally started off.

We rode several miles looking for a good place to fish. We searched all over the Neuse, got lost in the woods, wallowed around in beds of poison oak and finally decided to fish near the bridge.

After we finally got settled, we sat and waited for Mr. Fish to bite. We waited—and waited and waited. Then all of a sudden my line began to jerk. Well, it was a terrific battle. The fish fought and I fought. Looking back on it, I can say it was the greatest conquest of my life. I now proudly display the first fish I ever caught—a one half pound perch.
