

Goldsboro Hi News

THE NEWSPAPER OF THE STUDENT ASSOCIATION

March 3

Volume XXIII

GOLDSBORO, N. C., FRIDAY, JANUARY 20, 1950

Number 7

Martha Kornegay Is Named Chief Marshall

Newly-elected members of the N.H.S. are shown above. They are left to right: Betty Barbee, Peggy Pittman, Sam Johnson, Jimmy Frazier, K. D. Pyatt, Hugh Shine, Jimmy Shumate, Jack Borden, Martha Kornegay, June Handley, Dawson Thompson, Callie McArthur. Seated in the middle representing N.H.S. qualifications are Mela Royall, Sally Edgerton, Nancy Parker, Louise Wooten and Ann Marlowe. (News-Argus photo)

Martha Kornegay will serve as chief marshal for the coming year and she will be assisted by June Handley, according to the announcement of incoming marshals made by Miss Janie Ipock, advisor, made this week.

On the list are 16 girls and nine boys, all members of the present junior class.

Marshals are selected according to their scholastic standing, and the chief and assistant chief had the highest averages and thus merited their places.

Named to serve with the chief and her assistant are the following, not named in scholastic order:

Christine Bartlette, Keith Goodson, Betty Best, Dawson Thompson, David Lane, John Parker, Lucille Williams, Hilda Toler, Gale Griffin, Charles Dering, Bobby Noble, Dorothy Hill, Harold Kadis, Veryl Trueblood, Clara Savage, Joyce Pate, John Pearman, Sam Johnson, Callie McArthur, K. D. Pyatt, Lillian Haynes, Faye Smith and Edith Long.

"John Loves Mary" Plays To Capacity

"John Loves Mary", a three-act comedy by Norman Krasna, was witnessed by a near capacity house on Saturday and Monday nights, February 25 and 27, in the high school auditorium.

Words of praise from former Goldmasquers and patrons were heard among the roaring applause and laughter.

"John Loves Mary" was presented by the Senior Class in collaboration with the Goldmasquers, and was under the direction of Clifton Britton, dramatic teacher.

Following the performance on Saturday night a reception was held in the school cafeteria honoring the Goldmasquers on their seventh birthday anniversary. All Goldmasquer members, past and present, were invited to attend.

Immediately after the second performance on Monday night, the seniors entertained their parents at a reception, also held in the school cafeteria.

Seniors and their parents were greeted by the reception committee, composed of Bobby Watson, Ann Butler, Adaline Vann, Peggy Pittman, Elizabeth Smith, Barbara Anderson, Libby Lou Stuart, Paul Pittman, Joyce Gurlley, Betty Barbee, Jack Borden, Alyene Rollins, Etheline Coley, Peggy Strickland, Colleen Faircloth and Jimmy Shumate.

Class colors of lavender and white were predominant in the decorations. White and lavender flowers, greenery and candle arrangements showed the simple but unique dignity of the occasion. Refreshments consisted of lavender and white mints, iced cakes with '50 written on top, grape punch and peanuts.

Swedish Violinist Appears At G.H.S.

Paul Makovsky, a Swedish violinist, appeared in Goldsboro recently to present the fourth Community Concert of the season.

He was born in Stockholm, Sweden. When he was very young, his parents, who were Russian, moved with him to Paris. There he studied with the internationally known violinist. (Continued on page seven)

Hi News And Gohisca Send Delegates To "CSPA" Meeting In New York

Good Attendance At Band Concert

Goldsboro came to the support of its high school band at its first concert.

The band members, under the direction of John Thompson, presented a program of difficult numbers including: "Chorale" by Bach; "Guard Du Corps" by R. B. Hall; "The Voyager" by K. L. King; "The Foot Lifter" by Henry Fillmore; "Little Norwegian Suite" by Erik Hansen; "Robinson's" Grand Entry March" by K. L. King; "Two Moods" by Clare Grundman; "Marching Along Together", Edward Pola and Franz Steinger; "Hair of Gold, Eyes of Blue"; K. L. King's "Trombone King"; Shumate's "Serenade"; "Entry of the Gladiators" by Fucik Laurendeau; "March Slav, Allegro Finale" by Peter Tchaikowsky.

Eleven students representing Goldsboro High School's two publications will take a four-day trip to the annual Columbia Scholastic Press Convention in New York City from March 9 until the 11th. This is the second consecutive year that these publications have taken part in a convention of this kind.

There will be six students from the staff of the Hi News who will make the trip. Included in this number are: Peggy Malpass, Adaline Vann, Sara Cobb, Ruth Edmundson, Elton Warrick and Gene Roberts; Elizabeth Smith, Sally Edgerton, Sara Hunt, G. F. Seymour, Libby Lou Stuart and Emily Warrick will represent the Annual Staff.

In addition to the convention itself there will be a high school publication contest in which the Hi News will participate. This contest will classify the papers in order of their school enrollment and will grade according to make-up, typography, news contents and other things. The highest rating that can be obtained is an all-American rating.

The students who are to attend the convention will leave from Wilson on Tuesday afternoon and will arrive in New York Wednesday morning.

Convention sessions will begin on Thursday and will end with the noon day banquet at the Waldorf-Astoria on Saturday. Following the meeting the students will have one more night in New York and will board the train for home on Sunday morning.

Two of the members of the Hi News staff who attended the convention last spring and will attend the coming session are Elton Warrick and Gene Roberts. Other members of the Hi News Staff who attended the meet last year are: Ruth Forehand, Betty Barbee, Dana Gulley, Billy Winslow, Dawson Thompson, Dot Crawford, Martha Kornegay and Ted Montague.

Advisor to the Hi News, Mr. E. L. Roberts, will go as chaperone.

Pictured above are the GHS students who leave next Tuesday afternoon for New York City to attend the Columbia Scholastic Press Association held at Columbia University. Left to right they are: Lib Smith, Ruth Edmundson, Peggy Malpass, Sara Cobb, Libby Lou Stewart, Sally Edgerton, Sara Dewey Hunt, Emily Warrick, all sitting; and L. E. Warrick, Jr., Adviser Eugene L. Roberts, and Gene Roberts. G. F. Seymour and Adaline Vann were not present when the picture was made.

Twelve Students Receive G.H.S.'s Highest Honor

Twelve new members were tapped into the National Honor Society at a recent meeting.

Students from the Senior and Junior classes were eligible for admittance at this tapping.

The seniors who were recognized by members of the faculty as possessing the qualities necessary for membership in the N.H.S. were Betty Barbee, Hugh Shine, Jack Borden, Jimmy Shumate, and Peggy Pittman.

Martha Kornegay, Jimmy Frazier, June Handley, K. D. Pyatt, Dawson Thompson, Callie McArthur and Sam Johnson from the junior class were also tapped into the N.H.S.

Before the tapping ceremony a program defining Leadership, Scholarship, Service and Character, which are the outstanding traits required in those gaining society, was presented. Sally Edgerton, Mela Royal, Louise Wooten, Ann Marlowe, and Nancy Parker, all sophomores, were dressed in white, representing these traits.

The membership oath was issued to the new members by Mr. C. W. Twiford. Mr. E. L. Roberts pronounced the benediction.

Chest X-Rays Are Given To All G.H.S. Students

"Take a deep breath, now hold it."

Those were the words used by a Wayne County nurse at the local health department as GHS students were given their annual chest X-ray for the check of possible tuberculosis.

Every student in Goldsboro High School was required to take this tuberculosis test. Students were given a special rate for the X-ray of one dollar with the exception that individuals who were unable to afford an X-ray were given one at no expense to themselves.

Each class in school made the trip to the health department on different days, with the freshmen going first and the seniors came last to end the campaign.

(Continued on page 3)