Invitations Come, Graduation Looms

The realization that graduation is right around the corner was more firmly entrenched in the minds of the seniors May 10 when the invitations and calling cards which they had ordered some time ago finally arrived.

The invitations are done in the traditional G.H.S. style and were ordered through the L. G. Balfour Company of Attleboro, Massachusetts. The front of the invitations feature an etching of the front of the building with nothing else written on it except the necessary invitation inside the folder.

The calling card choices were left up to the individual students who ordered them.

Commencement exercises will be held June 8 in the auditorium.

Harold Kadis has been elected to serve as editor-in-chief of the 1951 Gohisca. Martha Kornegay was named as assistant editor.

The other members elected to the staff at a meeting of all Juniors interested in working on the annual are: Superlative Editor—Margie Rose, Co-organization Editors—Jerry Price and Frances Malpass, Advertising Managers—Callie McArthur and Dawson Thompson, Senior Editor—Ann Smith, Assistant Senior

Bowden And Ellis Selected By Students As Most Representative of Senior Class

Jimmy Ellis

Florence Bowden

Florence Bowden and Jimmy Ellis have been selected by Goldsboro High School students as the ones they deem most representative in the Senior Class, according to results of Hi News sponsored elections the past week.

Traditionally sponsored by the Hi News, the contest is undertaken each spring with nominations being made by members of the Senior class. After nominations have been completed, the entire student body is given the opportunity to vote for one girl and one boy. The object of the election is to select, in the minds of the students, just whom they consider as the boy and girl who are ideal as far as representation in school functions is concerned.

An original list of 12 boys and 12 girls was narrowed down to the final two by a series of voting periods.

Girl Nominees

The girls nominated were: Betty Barbee, Florence Bowden, Peggy Britt, Lib Smith and Florence Bowden with Lib and Florence on the last ballot.

Goldmasquers' Musical 'Pinafore' Is Tonight

Junior - Senior Dance Tonight

The Senior Class, G.H.S. faculty, and members of the Goldsboro school board are cordially invited to the annual Junior-Senior to be held tonight at 8:00 p. m. at the William Street gymnasium.

This affair is sponsored by the Junior class.

The theme, program and the refreshments are top secret, but will prove delightful surprises.

The Jr.-Sr. is to be a card dance, with twelve dances.

There is to be a break dance after every third dance.

The G.H.S. swing band under the direction of Johnny Thompson will furnish music throughout the evening.

The Goldmasquers, in collaboration with the music department, will present their first musical production "The H.M.S. Pinafore" by Gilbert and Sullivan tomorrow night and Monday night at 8:15. This play has the distinction of being the first production of its kind to be presented in Goldsboro in over 35 years.

"H. M. S. Pinafore" is directed by Mr. Andrew Griffith, instructor in music and dramatics. This play has been presented successfully ever since it was written.

Barbara Griffith, wife of Mr. Griffith and a past member of the cast of "Lost Colony", will portray the leading role of Josephine, the captain's daughter. Mrs. John Crawford, as Buttercup, the fat gypsy woman. Eddie Mitchell, playing Sir Joseph Porter, first lord of admiralty. Joe Hallow as Ralph; Ed Smith as the captain and Billy Ray as Dick Dead Eye. Hebe played by Dot Watson, the cousin who pursues.

Russell To Speak At Commencement

Reverend Leon Russell, former pastor of St. Paul's Methodist church, but now in Greenville, will preach the Baccalaureate sermon for the leaving senior class.

The services will be held Sunday evening, June 4, in the high school auditorium.

The processional, "Largo", will precede the invocation by Reverend James McChesney. Following the invocation, all will participate in singing "O Master, Let Me Walk With Thee". Preceding the scriptures by Mr. McChesney, the men's chorus will sing a solo after the Scriptures.

Another selection, Arcadelt's "Ave Maria" will be sung by the men's chorus after which Reverend Wade Goldston, of Daniel's Memorial Church, Adamsville, will pronounce the benediction. "Largo" will be the recessional.

Class Day

The annual Class Day program will be presented on Thursday, May 25.

Included in the program will be a musical three-ring circus, an unfinished skit, and words of wisdom from the departing seniors. The program is under the direction of Bob Mitchell and Jimmy Ellis and it promises to be very unusual.

Goldmasquers' Porthole Is Now Officially Opened

Goldsboro's newest recreation room, The Porthole, got off to an auspicious beginning Saturday night, May 6, following the first performance of "The Return of The Vagabond," the Goldmasquers-Junior Class production.

Designed primarily for the younger set, that is, the high school students, The Porthole was born in the mind of Mr. Clifton Britton in an effort to give high school students some place to go following the production of a play and after school.

Knotty pine boarding extends halfway up the wall and from then on, the wall paper is in a sea motif featuring pearl divers. Indirect lighting gives the former storage room an atmosphere that is not seen in another place of this sort anywhere around Goldsboro.

Bar Is Provided

At one end of the room is the bar where candy and soft drinks may be secured and within the room itself are several round tables, painted so as to blend with the entire color scheme of The Porthole. Benches of knotty pine extend around the room on all sides.

Work on The Porthole was under the direction of Mr. Britton but Buddy Wester of the stagecraft class was responsible for much of the work done and it was through his efforts that much of the work was accomplished.

Goldsboro High School and the parsons of the Goldmasquers performances have these three to thank for stimulating the interest in the recreation room under the lobby, "The Porthole". Director Clifton Britton, center, of the Goldmasquers, first envisioned a room for students to relax in after a play and Harold Nunn and Buddy Webster made "The Boss's" dream a reality by spending countless hours under the lobby converting a veritable junk room into a spot of beauty in G.H.S.
