

Card Dances Are Well Liked At Junior-Senior

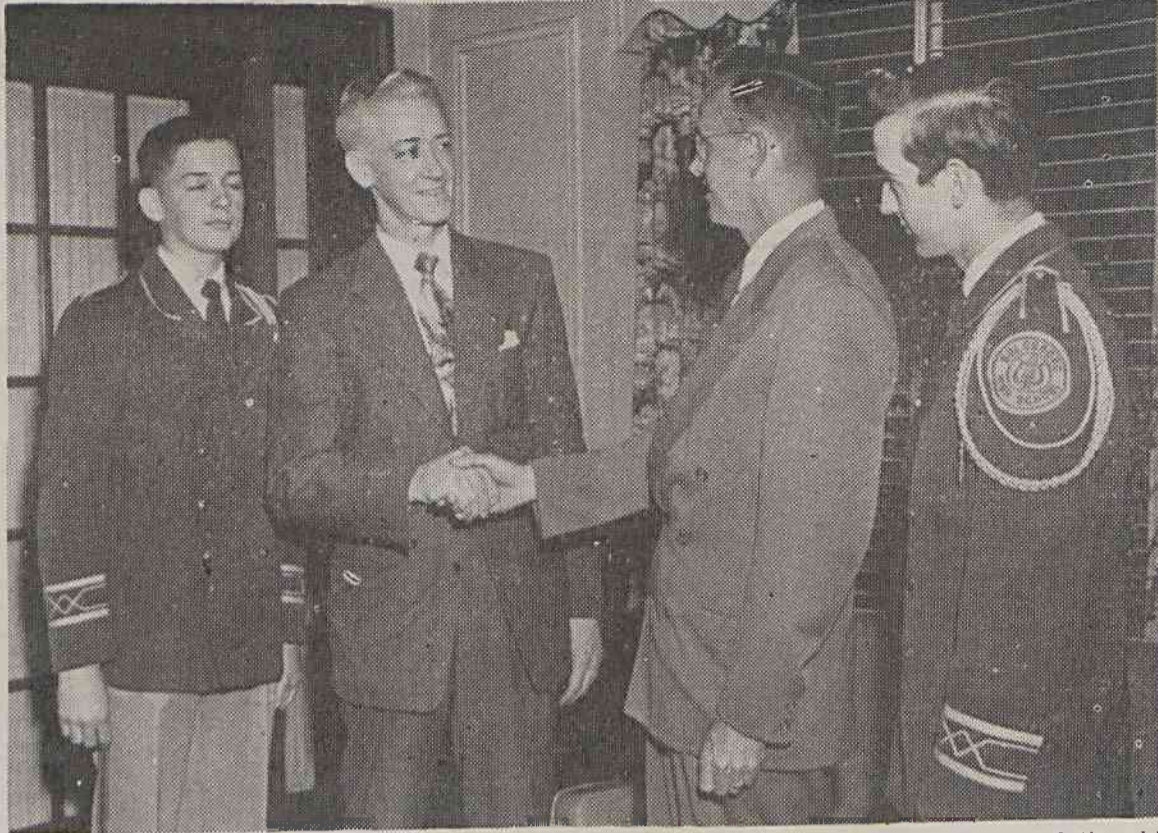

"Don't you like card dances? Well, I certainly do." That's what everybody has been saying since the Junior-Senior a couple weeks ago.

The "card idea" turned out swell as anyone will tell you. Although many of the girls and boys were sorta timid about filling out the dance cards at first.

In an Arabian setting the juniors entertained the seniors in a fashionable manner, including food and entertainment.

The program included a solo "The Man I Love" by Margaret Maxwell of Seven Springs, a tap dance by Peggy Hawkins, a duet, "All the Things You Are" by Anne Lee and Sonny Gainey, several selections by the Mount Olive Children's Band, a piano solo by Mr. Charles Thompson, songs by Harmony Four, a ballet number by Callie McArthur, recitations by Mrs. Paul Talton, and a sextet from Pikeville. Carl Kassell acted as master of ceremonies. Carolyn Malpass and Irving Ennis were in charge of the program.

After the program, everyone was served by Mrs. John Shine's Home Ec girls. Many thanks to them, they did a fine job. Immediately following the dancing began, and lasted twelve o'clock.

Butler And Rouse Receive Band Awards

LaVaine Butler and Billy Rouse were honored by the Band Patron Club Friday night, May 26, at the beginning of the high school concert. Mr. James Butler of the Goldsboro Chamber of Commerce presented the awards.

LaVaine was presented the Musicianship and Service to the Band Award. This is an award presented to a person who has the most ability as a musician.

Billy was presented the musician award.

LaVaine is a member of the junior class, and has been here one year. He plays the E Flat Sousaphone in the band. He has played this instrument for three years. Before coming to Goldsboro, he was a member of the New Hanover High School band in Wilmington, North Carolina.

Billy plays the B Flat clarinet in the band, and plays the tenor saxophone in the G.H.S. dance band. He serves as captain of the band, and is student director of the Goldsboro High School and the William Street School band. He also teaches band to the William Street School band students.

Honor Value System Effective Next Term

An Honor Value System has been approved by the Student Association of G.H.S.

It will become effective at the beginning of the 50-51 school term, at this time a council consisting of four teachers, four students and Mr. Twiford will be chosen.

This system will act as a guide and a stimulant to students in active participation.

The plan as a whole was submitted to homerooms where thorough discussions were held. Additions which were made to the system by the S.A. are: parts were stated to include both Junior and Varsity sports, class council members were given a value of 6-12; Jr.-Sr. committee were valued 0-2; and all members are to be rated 1-4.

As a special consideration to the present sophomore and junior class the honor values needed to receive an Honor Value award, for which 80 values has been set as the goal. If by the end of the coming school year the seniors and juniors have 30 and 60 values respectively, they are eligible for the award.

The members of the eighth grade of William Street School also voted on the Honor Value system.

Freshmen Stage Spring Social

The freshman class of Goldsboro High School had their first social Saturday night, May 20.

The decorations used at the Junior-Senior the previous night were used at the social.

Janet Stanton was in charge of the program which consisted of the following musical selections: Pete Malpass attempted to sing "My Foolish Heart" but due to the swooning was unable to finish. W. D. Gurley was forced to finish "My Foolish Heart". Pave Glisson sang "Saturday Night Fish Fry", Sally Edgerton and Mela Royall sang "Bicycle Built for Two". They rode a bicycle built for two while singing. Betty Jennette and Nancetta Huston sang "Dearie". Emily Howell did an imitation of Spike Jones. Billy West played the piano. Carroll West acted as master of ceremonies.

After the program dancing followed. The refreshments were open face sandwiches, cookies and fruit punch.

Handbook Revision Meets With Approval

The Revised G. H. S. student handbook has been accepted by the Student Association and is now being prepared for the press. The handbook was approved by S.A. Council, with recommendations for improvements from the council.

The new handbook is to be larger than the last one, 56 pages, said Martha Kornegay, editor. Seven hundred copies are to be printed.

Serving on the handbook committee were Bill Dameron, Betty Barbee, Shirley Shrago, Jimmy Cavanaugh, Nancy Parker and Jack Scott.
