Hi News Receives 'All American' Rating From National Scholastic Press Association

For the first time in the 24 years of its publication, the Goldsboro Hi News has received the highest rating possible—All American—from the National Scholastic Press Association of Minneapolis, Minnesota.

Heretofore, the Hi News has received ratings of First Class or Second Class, these ratings being about equally divided between first and second class.

The paper this year scored a total of 1,000 points out of a possible 1,050 points.

Editor Sara Thompson and Adviser E. L. Roberts were elated at the receipt of the scorebook indicating that the highest possible score had been received by the paper. Not only were they pleased, but all members of the journalism class and staff were pleased to receive this recognition; and Mr. Roberts said that credit should go to all staff members who have worked toward the improvement of the paper.

According to the score book, as compared to scores of former years, one of the greatest improvements has been in headlines and typography. Judges indicated that more contrast in headlines might help.

Notations placed in the score book tell something of the opinion of the judges. One note says: "Coverage is fine, emphasis well placed and balance satisfactory throughout"; another, "Fine, well-rounded paper with, it would seem, considerable student appeal."

The paper is printed in Mount Olive by the Mount Olive Tribune, and a generous amount of credit goes to this firm for its fine work in printing the paper.

Freshmen Place First On Third Quarter Honor Roll

Freshmen led the third quarter honor roll with 26 out of the total of 69. The sophomores were second with 18. There were 16 seniors and nine juniors on this roll.

Music Groups Present First Public Program

"Your Music department is on its way."

This was a part of the introduction given by Andrew Griffith, teacher of music, in presenting his three music groups in a concert at assembly on Friday.

Mr. Griffith explained that the department had been in operation only two years and that last year there were not enough boys for a glee club and the girls were untrained.

Three Groups Sing

This year there are three groups. They are the freshman girls, the advanced girls, and the male chorus.

The freshman girls sang three selections which were: "Smiling Through", "Mighty Like A Rose", and "Over The Rainbow".

The entire boys' chorus sang "The Riddle Song" and "The Cradled Song" while an octet sang "Nobody Knows The Trouble I've Seen".

The songs which the advanced girls sang were "Summertime", "Non Nobis Domine", "The Summer Day Has Passed Away" and "Liza".

A mixed chorus made up of the advanced girls and the boys' chorus sang three numbers. They were "May Day Carol", "Come Where My Heart Is Dreaming", and "When Day Is Done" which was sung in eight parts.

Kornegay, Edith Long, John Parker, Joyce Pate, John Pearman, K. D. Pyatt, Clara Savage, Veryl Trueblood.

Goldmasquers, Juniors To Present 'Arsenic and Old Lace' May 12, 14

(By Frank McInnis)

"Arsenic And Old Lace", a comedy by Joseph Kesselring, will be presented by the Junior Class and the Goldmasquers May 12 and 14 in the Goldsboro High School auditorium, at the end of Annual Junior Week.

Having enjoyed a highly successful run of four years on the Broadway stage, "Arsenic And Old Lace" has become one of the comedy classics of the American stage and is one of the ten most-produced plays of the high school theatre. So widespread is its popularity that it has been made into a very successful motion picture and has enjoyed record runs abroad, particularly in London.

Under the direction of Clifton Britton, a cast of twelve juniors, a sophomore and a senior will bring to the stage the famous lines, shocks, and situations of the play so many have come to enjoy.

Cast Listed

In the cast, Susan Mitchell and Sara Markham will be seen as Abby and Martha Brewster, respectively, the two old maid aunts in whose Brooklyn home the action

Former Pastor Will Deliver Finals Sermon

The Reverend John C. Grainger, former pastor of St. Stevens Episcopal Church, who is now living in Maryland, will address the senior class at their Baccalaureate sermon on Sunday night, June 3.

Reverend James M. McChesney will give the invocation, Reverend George Stierwald will introduce the speaker, the Goldsboro High School glee clubs will sing two selections, the Men's Quartet will sing one selection, and Reverend Gilmer Cross will pronounce the benediction.

The churches of the town will not hold their regular evening service but will join in worshipping with the graduating class.

Sally Edgerton Wins Peace Essay Medal

Sally Edgerton, a G.H.S. junior, was winner of the annual world peace speaking contest sponsored by the Goldsboro Jaycees.

She was presented a medal by Mr. M. B. Andrews, president of the Jaycees, in a recent assembly.

Sally won over three other contestants who were representing their respective classes. They were: Harold Kadis, senior; Paul Magill, sophomore; and Barbara Godwin, freshman.

"How Can We Help to Build World Peace in this Atomic Age?" was the subject of this year's theme. Each high school student is required to write an essay. The purpose is to acquaint the student with world affairs and make him realize how they can be improved.

Robert Mitchell won the medal last year and Janet Smith won it the year before.

Carl Kassell, recently seen in "Today Is Tomorrow", "The Fisherman" and "Distant Drums" will portray their nephew, Mortimer. Opposite him will be seen Carolyn Malpass as Elaine Harper. These two will supply the love interest so appropriate in lifting the amusing proceedings of the show.

Frank McInnis, who has appeared in "The Missouri Romance", "Years Ago", and "The Shepherd's Song", will appear as Doctor Herman Einstein. Portraying the sinister figure of the play, Bobby Martin is the frightening Jonathan Brewster. Bobby has been seen in such shows as "The Missouri Romance", "Best Foot Forward" and double-scored in the State Championship play, "Today Is Tomorrow".

West Appears

The Reverend Dr. Harper will be played by Cecil West, well-remembered for "Distant Drums". The Officers Brophy and Klein are, respectively, Donald Best and Donald Montague.

Several comic roles sure to stand out in the production include: Morris Gurley, of the Hi News and
