Robin Anne Owens

From Greensboro College
...who transferred there from
Nash Community College

"When I graduated from Northern Nash Senior High School in 1984, I wasn't ready for a large four-year college. I decided to enroll in the community college in my home town."

Robin enrolled in the College Transfer program (then it went by the name "General Education") and graduated with her Associate Degree in 1986. All of her local college coursework transferred to Greensboro College and Robin entered at the junior level majoring in Early Childhood and graduating with honors with a B.A. degree.

"It was the right decision for me," said Robin, who plans to teach in a public school system in or near her hometown of Rocky Mount.
