

Dramatic Coach
Announces Cast
Of Contest Play

"Gloria Mundt" to Be Given
In District Tournament in March.

Rehearsals Begin on One-Act Tragedy.

If you have noticed any students going around school talking to themselves with a dazed, faraway look in their eyes, it does not mean that they have gone crazy, but just that they have been rehearsing their parts in the contest play, "Gloria Mundt," a one-act tragedy by Patricia Brown. Miss Scarborough, the director, has announced the following cast: Miss Jebb, Norma, Mary Katherine East; Robert Cartwell, a doctor, Douglas Cranford; Virginia Blake, a new nurse; Miss Farnsworth, Farnsworth, Sue Coble; Mr. Lloyd, James Fry; and Miss Dunn, Jeanne Hart.

In "Gloria Mundt" we have an unusually good play which will undoubtedly be the feature of the district contest. The Albemarle cast will present the play in a most convincing manner. The district winner enters the state tournament when the annual Dramatic Festival holds its stage. This contest is held three years ago, Albemarle won the district contest with the comedy "The Purple Door Knob" was not presented in the tournament on account of the illness of two members of the cast.

The outstanding aspect of "Gloria Mundt" is the characterization. Each of the characters is extremely interesting. None of them is merely a caricature of the real people. The setting of the play is a reception room in an insane asylum.

Miss Jebb is a sharp, thin woman of forty. She seems to be perfectly normal, yet there is something strange, almost sinister, about her. One wonders what her real character is. She sits at her desk during practically the entire play knitting, knitting, knitting. Every time she talks and betrays. In one tense climax scene, she reveals her inmost thoughts in talking to Virginia, the new nurse.

Virginia is a small, fair-haired girl of about twenty with a delicately pretty face and eyes that cannot conceal their eagerness to learn and know. All her movements are though graceful, are quick and impulsive. She is interested in Dr. Cartwell, the young doctor, who is somewhat inconsistent in character. At times he is brutally cynical, completely hardened by his own character. At times he is kind and his bossiness, impulsiveness, and eagerness show through. His reaction to Virginia's youth and determination is interesting.

Mrs. Farnsworth is a well-dressed, middle-aged woman, who is responsible but completely harmless. She is the type who serves as a young woman's model without doing any work, belongs to a literary club in which she never reads, and is a combination of a remarkable combination of the womanly, modern woman and the lady of the school.

Miss Dunn and Mr. Lloyd agree throughout their appearance. Miss Dunn is a young woman with a strident voice and a determined manner. She delights in knowing more facts, figures, and statistics of every kind than anyone else. Mr. Lloyd is a middle-aged man with a slightly nervous, sensitive manner. He is under numerous delusions. He is Charles Dickson de plume.

Thus about these characters weaves this grim ironic story of the "Gloria Mundt" in an insane asylum. This play weaves with you a strange, weird feeling concerning the abnormal sanity of insanity.

JANITOR OF A. H. S.

Edward C. Hatley, pictured above, was born in Anson county forty-one years ago. In 1910 he moved to Albemarle, and five years ago he was employed as cotton trucker at the Wicaccasset mill. He has worked faithfully for fourteen years. From 10 A. M. to 3:30 P. M. he performs his work diligently each day. His devotion to service and his pleasant disposition have made for him many friends among the changing student body of North Carolina. He has worked for many years at the Albemarle high school, where he has worked faithfully for fourteen years. From 10 A. M. to 3:30 P. M. he performs his work diligently each day. His devotion to service and his pleasant disposition have made for him many friends among the changing student body of North Carolina.

Albemarle High
Students Win In Essay Contests

Mary Katherine East and Lee Copple to Receive Gold Medals—Will Enter State Contest.

Lee Copple and Mary Katherine East were the winners of the district oratory and essay contest which was sponsored by the Junior Order and held in the high school auditorium Friday, January 28. Each winner will receive a gold medal as a prize at the February P. T. A. meeting, and will also be given the opportunity to compete with the other district winners in a state meeting of the Junior Order on February 22. The winning boy receives a scholarship to Meredith college, and the winning girl one to the University of North Carolina. Mr. Gibson said that he believes that chances are good that one or both of the scholarships will be won by the Albemarle contestants.

Triangular Debate
Team Selected to Represent A. H. S.

Mary Katherine East, Estelle Jordan, Mary Lee Cantrell, and Lee Copple Are Chosen.

James Fry and Ann Parker
Will Be Alternates.

In the preliminaries held Friday afternoon, February 4, in the high school auditorium, Estelle Jordan, Mary Katherine East, and Lee Copple were chosen from the ten contestants to represent Albemarle in the triangular debates to be held in March. James Fry and Ann Parker were chosen as alternates. Other students taking part were Jean Hurt, Charles Lefter, Clyde McDowell and Hoy Lolly.

A great deal of enthusiasm was shown as is indicated by the fact that there was a rather large number of contestants. The question for the debate this year is: Resolved, That the several states should adopt a unicameral system of legislature. There were six speakers, and the contest lasted four on the affirmative, but, in spite of the odds, the affirmative carried their side admirably. Each speaker was allowed five minutes for his or her one minute Judgments for the contest were Miss Doris Cocherham, Miss Evelyn Burt, Claude Grigg and E. L. Gehring.

Garden Club Gives
Map to Library

At the last meeting of the Mamie Crowell Garden Club a very interesting and valuable garden map of North Carolina was presented to the library.

Printed in colors, the map is suitable for framing and makes a very attractive decoration, as well as handy and ready reference for those who are interested in the accompanying the map is material for a booklet which contains a great deal of interesting information about North Carolina.

Anyone wishing to make a gift to a library or to a room would find more acceptable one than this. Many schools have already secured this map, and teachers report that they have found it invaluable in their study, in geography and history.

Frances Henning To Enter D. A. R. Contest

Frances Henning will represent the school in the Good Citizenship Pin Competition at the State D. A. R. convention to be held in Raleigh March 7, 8, 9. The winner will receive a gold medal and a trip to Washington, D. C., where the National D. A. F. will convene in April.
