

The Full Moon

Volume 19 ALBEMARLE, N. C., OCTOBER 24, 1940

No. 2

"THERE'S SOMETHING ABOUT A SOLDIER that is fine, fine, fine!" At least that's what Miss Hege and Miss Freeman thought when they helped enroll the future soldiers of America; but a few funny incidents occurred.

Miss Hege put down black for the color of a man's hair. The man looked a little puzzled and said, "Oh, no. I'm not black, lady. I'm really pretty white when I'm washed up."

She asked another if he had any noticeable physical defects. He answered, "Well, I haven't any right now, but if it had been a day later I'd have one. I'm having all my teeth pulled out tomorrow!"

The teachers were supposed to write down the color of the complexion. One of the men was asked, "Yours is sorta red, isn't it?" "No, lady. I'm just blushing!"

Some of the men even brought their wives to prove they were married!

MISS HOLT, AFTER EXPLAINING that kyphosis means round shoulders asked, "How does one get kyphosis?"

Answer: "It breaks out on you like the measles."

MISS POLSTON WAS TALKING about the red card. "Believe me, there's no mercy to be shown."

Bud F.: "Yeah—at home."

TALK ABOUT PRESENTS for the girls, well, the members of the Junior Legion of Honor team brought their girls such odd gifts from Cincinnati that they are not able to list them.

Speaking of a good time, the boys had had one. Some of them had never ridden on a train and possibly none of them had slept on such a speedy vehicle. Being quite a rowdy bunch of boys and, of course, very curious, they proceeded to push every button available so that "what would happen."

The porter on the train was humiliated beyond words because of the audacious name given to him by the boys. Yes, they called him the "butler." Quite a "serviceable" name, isn't it?

The baseballers want to make new friends so they went immediately to the zoo. There they had fun. One of the boys said that they were the friendliest bunch of people he'd ever seen.

"A team like that one" and "the trip" they had go hand-in-hand—what a boy's whole idea is in fact that a better time could not have been witnessed by a better bunch of boys.

FOOTBALL HERO DISCUSSES STYLES. Clothes on the campus this year are as bright as a flower garden in May. Red, yellow, green, blue and tan seemed to be the colors chosen.

John Kennedy's brown and orange pants with a red sweater and a blue tie were the accessories take the cake for the greatest outfit on the campus.

Lucille and Ninky's stylish coats are dead straight. Lucille's coat is red and black and she takes the prize for the loudest feminine outfit.

Student Council Makes 1940 Plans

Plans for the future were discussed and a partial list of activities for the year were announced at a regular meeting of the student council held on Monday.

A room inspection committee, whose duty it will be to inspect all home rooms periodically for neatness, originality of bulletin boards, etc., was appointed. Serving on this committee are Yvonne Foreman, chairman; Ruby Hatley, and Margaret Nesbit.

It was suggested that a student host or hostess be appointed to serve in the lobby, and that all members should volunteer their services for odd jobs.

Other suggestions were that the president be permitted to make announcements over the sound system, that a system be worked out for getting lost and found articles back to the students, and that an effort be made to find the songs which are most popular with the student body to be sung in chapel.

Meeting are to be held regularly every other Monday afternoon at 2:10.

Clubs For 1940 Are Organized

Club organization began two weeks ago with newly formed Boys' Home Ec. club, the Stamp club and the eighth and ninth Girls' Chorus clubs leading the list. Miss Freeman is sponsoring the Home Ec. clubs, which meet on Wednesday and Thursday, and Margaret Nesbit and Willie Prather are sponsoring the Girls' Glee club.

On Thursday the Boosters club meets with Miss Law and the Sound club meets with Mr. Hatley. In the dramatics section, the eleventh and twelfth grade clubs meet with Miss Fitzgerald on Wednesday and the tenth grade club with Miss Hatley.

The Mixed Chorus club is meeting with Mr. Fry again this year on both Wednesday and Thursday.

Attend Convention

Jean Palmer, Margaret Nesbit, and Reed Gaskin will represent A. H. S. at the annual convention of the high school student councils in Greenville on November first and second.

Since the tobacco market will be closed on Saturday following the noon adjournment of the convention, delegates, who are interested in visiting the warehouses, are invited to come to the high school on Friday morning to meet the guides, who will be glad to take them to tobacco sales. On Friday evening there will be a banquet followed by a dance.

Tillotson Resigns As A.H.S. Teacher

Jack Tillotson, who has taught mathematics and band in Albemarle high school for a little over a year, last week resigned his duties to enlist as flying cadet in the Army Air corps at Fort Worth, Texas.

"I am enlisting as flying cadet in the Army Air corps at Fort Worth, Texas," he explained, when questioned. "I will first be sent to civilian flying school for three months' training under Army supervision in Fort Worth."

"About 40% are eliminated during this period as unfit for military flying. Successful cadets go to Randolph Field, San Antonio, Tex. for the second three months. They go from there to Kelly Field, San Antonio, for the final three months. Graduates are commissioned second lieutenants in the air corps and will be on active duty."

Wallace, Blackwell, Palmer and Martin Are Senior Officers

Ted Wallace was elected president; Lafayette Blackwell, vice president; Lucille Palmer, secretary; and Polly Martin, treasurer of the senior class in a meeting held last Thursday in the auditorium.

Ted is also president of the Student Council and a letter man on the varsity, as is Lafayette Blackwell. Lucille and Polly are both members of the National Honor society.

After the meeting the president appointed two committees: one to select the class motto, colors, and flowers; and one to work out some plans for raising money for the senior banquet.

It was also announced that orders for class rings would be taken in the near future.

Boosters' Club Have Projects For Fall

The Boosters club has three main projects this fall: publicity for the homecoming game, and for the square dance and cakewalk, and a contest for subscriptions for the "Full Moon".

Every Thursday at activity period the Boosters club has been making handbills advertising the homecoming game, which is with Concord, and the square dance to be held in November. To climax the publicity for the game, a bonfire is to be held the night before at seven o'clock. After the bonfire, near the tennis courts, the students are to parade down town and gather at the square for some days.

For three consecutive days before the square dance, handbills are to be put in automobiles on Main street advertising the dance and the game.

A contest for subscriptions for the "Full Moon" is to be held soon. The school will be made soon.

News Briefs

Attention! A. H. S. Students! The Boosters club requests that you each let one ex-graduate of A. H. S. know that we have a homecoming game with Concord this weekend and that we would like for them to return and see their old teachers and enjoy the game.

The annual State Teachers' meeting will be held in Charlotte on October 25 and all A. H. S. teachers will attend. School will be closed for the day.

"Maybe They Really Don't Have Such An Easy Time Of It After All", Say Parents

Well—if the parents can't stand it for five minutes, how in the world can they expect the students to stand it for a whole day?

At any rate, parents of the Albemarle high students thoroughly enjoyed themselves Thursday afternoon, October 10, at the P. T. A. meeting, consisting of a school day's schedule and a Major Bowes' Amateur program, held afterwards in the auditorium.

Upon arrival, the parents were escorted to their home rooms by the principal, superintendent, and members, and others of the school.

Some of the guardians came 30 minutes early in order to find their children, and a Major Bowes' Amateur late in order to get out of class work. (P. S. Many of them were caught skipping class periods.)

Amusing incidents were not lacking among the guests, and a "bunch" of women proceeded to give Ted Wallace a hand slap which he will never forget, thinking he was Coach De Lotto. They, of course, complimented Ted, the so-called coach, on his splendid work with the boys this year, and when they finally trailed off down the hall, poor Ted was left wide-eyed, speechless, motionless, but yet there was sheer joy in his heart. (Of course he didn't tell the coach of his flattery.)

Following are some of the overheard remarks: One lady, "Yes, I have my schedule, do you?" Another mother, "If this is 86, goodness only knows where 85 is." An adult came a whisper (yell). "Are you lost?" (Echo) "No, but I wish I was."

One mother, not being able to find a certain room, decided to skip that period. Many of the parents went to their first three classes without going to home rooms. By the way! Laura Frances Peck had to remind Miss Hege (a teacher) to go to her fourth period class. Some of them thought that A. H. S. was such a splendid school, while someone else thought the remark that they were glad the students were "not as dumb as the parents."

Mrs. W. L. Mann was "so-in-love" with the Home Ec. lab that she almost had to be "drug" out while Mrs. Nesbit ran out of the chorus room shouting "Goody! Goody!" The reason for her commotion was the fact that she had been called upon to make a speech just before that particular incident, a song sung by Mr. Nesbit (in Korean) was enjoyed by Mr. Fry and his class.

By the end of the fifth period, the "Chil'luns" were exhausted from climbing the steps. (Now—remember that motion made concerning the installation of elevators?)
