Susie Swaringen Winner Of Award

Susie Swaringen has been named Home Maker of Tomorrow for 1955 for Stanly county and given a gold medal.

A group of interested senior girls recently took a written test on home making, the one making the highest score being acclaimed the winner.

For entering the contest the home economics department was given a Betty Crocker Cook Book, and the local winner also received a cook book plus the gold medal. All these were awarded by General Mills, who sponsored the contest.

March 11 Susie took another written test for the state award, which is a scholarship.

Future Teachers Receive Practice

A practice teaching program has been planned for the members of the FTA.

Each member has been assigned to a certain elementary school in Albemarle and will teach one class a week. This program is designed to help the members gain experience that will be beneficial to them later.

Plans are also underway to organize a county-wide FTA program.

Shelf-Foolish

(Continued from Page 2, Col. 3) Know the Boy Who Won, by Charlotte Pope. There is also the story of Marvin Clark in The T. I. I. Know by Sue Whitley. Last but not least, there is the book on Joe Madrin, The Great Panyo by Donnie Smith.

It's been fun and I wish I didn't have to say APRIL FOOL—but I do!

BAD WEATHER DOESN'T HINDER PERFECT ATTENDANCE RECORD
