

THE FULL MOON

Volume 38 No. 5

Albemarle Senior High School, Albemarle, N. C.

December 15, 1972

New Misses Reign

Misses Merry Christmas this year are Cathy Cheatham and Linda Steele, both seniors.

Cathy is a member of the Boosters' club, YARC (Youth Association for Retarded Children) and the Senior Council. Her hobbies are drawing and playing tennis. Cathy would like to continue her studies at UNC-G but she is not sure yet what college she will attend.

Linda previously served on the Junior Council and was a member of FHA. Linda's main hobby is swimming. Linda would like to study sociology at Fayetteville State.

Cathy Cheatham and Linda Steele represent ASHS in the Christmas parade.

This is the time of year, for happiness and cheer. It is the time for a kind sign and a warm smile. But, most of all, it is the time to think of our Savior, Jesus Christ, of His love, how He was sent from above, and the time He takes to care. So, think of Him and have a Merry Christmas and a Happy New year.

Cathy Is Chosen

Cathy Thompson is Miss Future Business Leader of America for the 1972-73 school year.

The choice of Miss FBLA is based upon personality, personal appearance, evidences of potential executive or teaching ability, conduct, evidences of career planning, willingness to assume responsibility, honesty, integrity, and service to school. Cathy's teachers rated her high in all of these qualities.

Renee Brown, Miss FTA, represented her club in the Christmas parade.

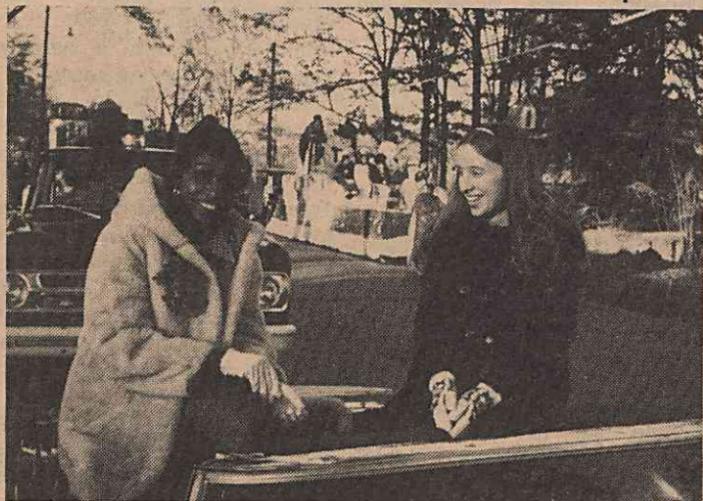

Cathy Thompson was chosen Miss FBLA by her club and the sponsor.

Miss FTA Chosen

Rene Brown is Miss FTA, 1972-73. Rene, a 17-year-old senior, has brown hair and brown eyes.

All FTA members voted on the person that they thought was worthy of the title of Miss FTA, November 21.

Rene is also the club president.

Arlesa Daniels and Frances Long ride in the parade for FHA.

Cheryl Mount awaits the beginning of the parade.

Connie Poplin and Steve Eudy, Miss and Mr. VICA and Sue Brown, Miss DECA, represent their clubs.

Homemakers Make It

Misses FHA are Arlesa Daniels and Frances Long, who were selected because of their various activities in FHA.

Both attended a leadership workshop at East Carolina and rallies at both county and state levels. Arlesa is state secretary of FHA.

Frances enjoys art, sewing, and baking. Arlesa likes to read, write poetry, cook, and sing. These talents make these girls worthy of the title of Misses FHA.

Cheryl Makes A Round Trip

Cheryl Mount represented our school in the Carousel Parade in Charlotte, November 23. As Carrousel Princess, she traveled to Charlotte and competed for the title of Carrousel Queen. The girls were guests at a Mayor's luncheon Wednesday. Friday morning was spent at the Carowinds Amusement Area where they were guests of honor at a luncheon.

Mr. And Mrs. VICA Named

Mr. and Miss VICA for this year are Steve Eudy and Connie Poplin.

Steve is a senior enrolled in ICT and employed part-time at Metrolina Ford as a mechanic.

Connie is a senior also in ICT and is employed by the North Carolina Lutheran Home as a nurse's aid.

At one of the VICA's meetings seniors voted on whether or not to sponsor Mr. and Miss VICA. This was agreed upon and nominations were in order.

After receiving the names of the nominees, the senior members selected Mr. and Miss VICA.

Sue Picked

Sue Brown represented the Distributive Education class in the Christmas parade. Sue is Miss Deca 72-73. She won in a local contest sponsored by Distributive Education Clubs of America. A junior, Sue is employed by McLellan's. Her hobbies are reading, bicycle riding, painting, and water skiing.

Moonbeams

LIBRARY LINKS UP

The library is expanding into room 203. As a result of this, Mr. Klutz is in 206 and Mrs. Kesler is in 204, the language lab.

CLASSES VIEW TREES

Miss McKenzie's and Mrs. Westerlund's Western World Studies classes visited the Christmas tree display at the Stanly County Public Library Wednesday and Thursday, December 6th and 7th.

ROARING CIRCLE

Myron Harrington is Student Lion for the month of December. Student Rotarian is John Baugh.

FBLA DECORATES TREE

Members of FBLA decorated a Christmas tree for display in the school's cafeteria, Friday, December 8.

Home Ec Has Speakers

The art of crewel embroidery is something not many people realize they can do. But, this isn't the case with Mrs. McIntyre's Home Economics II classes now that they have heard Mrs. Paul Honeycutt. Mrs. Honeycutt demonstrated the basic stitches of crewel embroidery, November 20, and got the students well on their way to creating their own designs and working on their own kits.

Also a project of interest in the Home Economics II classes is religion. Father Anthony Kovacic of the Catholic Church and the Reverend W. B. Farmer of Tabernacle United Methodist Church spoke to the students November 30. The Reverend Farmer discussed the importance of premarital counseling with students.

It's That Time Again

Registration for courses in the third quarter of the new English curriculum began three weeks ago. Thirty-six courses were on the list, with independent study offered for seniors only.

The procedure for narrowing down the courses was to be the same; however, the first registration was sufficient to decide subjects to be offered.

For the third quarter, twenty different subject areas will be taught, whereas only twelve were offered the second quarter. All courses will include reading, speaking, writing, and listening.

So far the teachers agree the new curriculum is going well, and they hope the program will continue to be a success. The teachers feel they are working harder and worrying more. According to Mrs. Gamewell, head of the English department, the type of program the students have been involved in for the past ten years is not as successful as the new English at our high school. Mrs. Gamewell explained that the new program is a better method to reach the student and bring out his abilities.

She added that since many colleges are also implementing this type program, the new English will be more beneficial to students than the old program.

So far, no complaints have been registered, and everyone, especially teachers seem to be enthusiastic.

It was thought that mixing sophomores, juniors, and seniors in the same classes could cause a few difficulties, but, as of yet, the mixture has made little difference in the attitudes of students.
