ent classes: Class A-up to 49 wind players; Class AA-50 to 74 wind players; and Class AAA-75 and above wind players. There were seven judges for different areas of competition. They were:

- Music Performance — 35 points
 - Music Effectiveness — 25 points
 - Marching Maneuvering — 20 points
 - Marching Maneuvering Effectiveness — 20 points
 - Perfect score — 100 points
- Ratings were determined by the following point scale:
- Superior — 80-100
 - Excellent — 60-79.9
 - Good — 40-59.9

There were four bands competing in the "A" class. They were Central Cabarrus, West Stanly, Forest Hills, and North Stanly. North Stanly stole the show and brought home the drum major trophy, percussion trophy, a superior rating trophy, and the first place trophy in the "A" class.

Bands competing in the "AA" class were Independence, Southern Wayne, Mt. Pleasant, and East Lincoln. East Lincoln took the goodies home in this class with trophies in color guard, percussion, a superior rating and first place in the "AA" class.

Bands competing in the "AAA" class were Shelby, Cary, Bessemer City, Concord, Mooresville, and Bandys. Cary's band dominated the score sheets with a superior rating, drum major, color guard, percussion, and major-ette trophies. Cary also won the Grand Champion Trophy, presented in honor of Tommy Hauss. They wrapped up the show with an encore performance.

The band extends special thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Hedrick, Chris Bramlett, and all the many other special people who made the "Albemarle Showcase of Bands" such a huge success. We are already looking forward to the second annual "Albemarle Showcase of Bands", 1983.

Magazine Sale

It was that time again. We had a big assembly to get us fired up, went back to classes, and received those envelopes. Then we went to our families and friends and told them we were from Senior High and would like them to buy a magazine. Most people said they really did not need them, but they usually bought them anyway.

This year the Student Council magazine sale was used to raise money for a lot of activities, one of which will be the Junior-Senior Prom. It was good to see that so many students got involved in the sale. The top salesman this year was Richard Storm with 331 dollars worth of magazines sold. Sussie Bowers and Roy Watkins achieved second and third places. The top homeroom this year was Mrs. Almond's. These students were rewarded with a pizza party during fourth period one day.

Now we come to the homeroom that didn't "go ape" over the sale. The teacher of this homeroom asked that her name not be released in this article. Mrs. Dennis also commented that it wasn't her fault that her students didn't get involved.

We would like to thank Mr. Blacklock for the fine job he did on being in charge of the sale. We would also like to thank David Christy for selling Better House-keeping to his mom.
