

THE ELEVENTH GRADE

Mr. Hentz's speeches must have proved helpful, for the members of the Senior Class have made the following New Year's resolutions:

Robert McConnell resolves to become a magician.

Marveta Reese, who fell asleep quite often during the history lesson, resolves to keep awake from now till the end of the year.

Ernest Munger resolves to eat no more candy in school after Christmas.

Doris Potts resolves never to get married.

Richard Zoellner resolves to pay better attention in class and to read less fiction.

Peggy Thompson, who has made lower grades than usual on her tests, (as have all the Eleventh Grade) resolves to do better the last term.

L. C. Nix, who has always devoted his time to studies, resolves to become more romantic.

Edith Crunkleton resolves to heed Mr. Hentz's hints and to work harder.

Harold McConnell resolves to become less bashful.

Manila Reese resolves to spend more time in school. She has missed almost a whole month.

Vernon Aiken resolves to think more of his school work.

Leslie Reese resolves to eat more at home so that he will not need to eat in school.

Ernest Munger had the misfortune of breaking one of his ribs and has been absent from school for several days. The Eleventh Grade misses him very much and hopes that he will soon be back in school. The Basketball team is also sorry to hear of his accident, for he will not be able to play on the team for quite a while. Ernest is one of the most experienced players on the team.

The Senior Class was especially busy the week of December 12. In addition to their regular subjects - history, physics, English, and Latin - they each wrote a one-act play for English and studied an extra book on the Diesel engine for Physics.

The Seniors are taking more interest in their work and are working very hard. Each day in order to improve the quality of their Latin translation and to be able to give a smoother translation, they write out the entire lesson.

The entire Senior Class is becoming very eager for their rings to arrive. They are also becoming excited over graduating in the spring. In fact this seems to overshadow the near-by Christmas holidays for them.
