

one thing and only one thing does not know that well, because he does not know its relation to other things.

The laboratory and class room can give no college man all that he ought to know; after all they were not intended for that. He should think, reason and do what he deems wise.

MANNERS AT THE MOVIES

Manners is one of the most important factors in a person's life. One's success depends to a great extent upon good manners. One of the best places to show good manners is at a theatre. Everyone who is there has come for the purpose of seeing a performance on the screen rather than to have his attention attracted by some one who does not have enough respect for others to behave himself.

Some of the important facts concerning manners at the movies are:

1. Do not laugh, cry, or applaud at inappropriate times.
2. Look at the show, not at who is entering the theatre.
3. Do not whisper. This prevents others from hearing distinctly.
4. Do not climb over people to get a choice seat.
5. Always be polite to the theatre workers.
6. Do not chew gum, eat peanuts, smoke, or shine a flashlight in the theatre.
7. Do not permit small children to cry or walk about during the show.

All these facts come under the head of being considerate of others. Usually if one is considerate, he will display good manners.

EASTER

Easter is a day set aside commemorating the Resurrection of Christ. A long time ago the Christians continued the Feast of the Passover at which the Paschal Lamb was sacrificed. There was a long dispute in the Christian Church as to the proper time for holding Easter, the Christians of the East celebrating it on the same day as that on which the Jewish Passover fell, while the majority of the church celebrated it on the Sunday after this day. It was settled by the Council of Nice in 325, which decided that it was to be reckoned as at the present. Easter is the first Sunday after the full moon which falls upon or after the twenty-first of March, and if the full moon happens on a Sunday, Easter Day is the next Sunday.

Colored or decorated eggs are often used to celebrate Easter. This custom is very ancient. The egg is used as a symbol of life - used because Christ died that we might live.

LEGISLATIVE ACCOMPLISHMENTS FOR THE SCHOOLS

While the legislature failed to enact the three point program which the North Carolina Education Association asked for, some progress was made. The following has been accomplished:

1. The legislature appropriated money which it thought would be sufficient to provide for a ninth and tenth increment in salary, so that the final maximum of the state provided salaries would be reached in ten years rather than eight years of experience. The final decision as to what will be done with this money was left with the State School Commission.

2. On several other points progress was made. Some of these were provided through the school machinery act. Some
