TYPISTS FOR THE DILLARD HIGH NEWS

GERALDINE MORRISEY

ROSSIE DANIELS

CHERYL GRAY

Geraldine's interest is commercial education and she hopes someday to be an efficient secretary. In her leisure time she sings, dances and read fiction.

Rossie enjoys typing and also plans to do secretarial work. Her motto is "We Learn to remember and not to forget."

Cheryl likes to read, and her specialty is mystery stories. After finishing high school, she plans to continue her study in business education at William Penn Institute, Philadelphia, Pa.

Meet Members Of Education Board

Many students do not know the names of the 1964-65 members of the Goldsboro Board of Education.

They are as follows: Mr. Floyd Fonvielle, vice president, Wachovia Bank chairman; Mrs. W. A. Shepard, Jr., housewife, Mr. J. Harry Muir, Jr., personnel director, Borden Mills; Mr. E. Thomas Franklin, owner of Made Rite Bakery; Mrs. W. D. Ray, housewife; Dr. Con T. McDonald, physician; Mr. W. A. Dees, attorney at law; Mr. James C. Crown, Certified Public Accountant; Mr. W. H. Boyer, general manager, J. M. Edgerton & Son, Inc.; Dr. N. H. Shope, Superintendent of City Schools and secretary of Board.

The purpose of the Board is to make rules and regulations and see that they are carried out explicitly, so that the various schools in the system give its students the best education possible. It is responsible for the hiring and firing of our classroom teachers, and the raising of their salaries, etc.

In short, the Board of Education is responsible for the general education of all students of the Goldsboro School System.

Dillard High Office Helpers

Among the many D. H. S. students who have extra assignments and like them are the office helpers.

Under the supervision of the school's clerk, Mrs. W. B. Starke, the eleven students are receiving special training in accuracy, punctuality, cooperation and politeness. Their work consists of typing, checking the lunch count, filing dead records, running errands, making announcements and memographing programs for the school.

The students are selected on the basis of ability and willingness to be of service to the school.

Enrolled for these assignments for this year are Gwendolyn Crawford, Letha White, Shirley Worrells, Soraya Moore, Elizabeth Martin, Lubert Barnes, Dorothy White, Minnie Ford, Climistine Coley, Norris Thomas, Joshua Brown and Bobby Jenkins.

THEATER-IN EDUCATION TO COME TO D. H. S.

Students at Dillard on Feb. 22 will have an opportunity to see excerpts from two of William Shakespeare's plays, the presentation of which is an educational theater project.

Key episodes in Twelfth Night and Julius Caesar will be brought to life by five highly experienced New York actors, Anne Gee Bird, David Byrd, Chet London, Jay Robinson and Thea Ruth.

Anne Gee Bird, who will portray Olivia in Twelfth Night, began her acting career with the original Shakespeare-under-The Stars Company.

David Byrd will be seen as Malvolio in Twelfth Night and as Mark Anthony in Julius Caesar. He has completed two seasons with the American Shakespeare Festival.

Chet London who will portray Sir Tobey Belch in Twelfth Night and Marcus Brutus in Julius Caesar made his Broadway debut in the comedy First Love.

Jay Robinson, Sir Andrew Aguecheek, in Twelfth Night and Caius Cassius in Julius Caesar, made his Broadway debut at the age of 18 when he shared starring roles with Boris Karloff in The Shop at Sly Corner.

Thea Ruth Maria, in Twelfth Night, is appearing for her second consecutive season with Theater-In-Education. Three years ago she made her New York debut at the Broadway Gate Theater when she appeared in The Merchant of Venice.

This experiment in educational theater is sponsored by the North Carolina State Board of Education to enable students to understand, appreciate, enjoy and utilize the material they encounter.

1965 Yearbook Ready In The Early Spring

Most pictorial, most interesting and most attractive is the layout for the 1965 yearbook of Dillard High School.

As one climbs higher to get a broader view, he can relive exciting moments through this memorable album. It will feature the greatest adventures in pictures and words of school life.

Bound in a cover that was uniquely designed by the class artist, James Dixon, it will be the most complete yearbook ever compiled in the history of the school.

The publication, the price of which will be $5.00 will be distributed in early spring.

JOHN FREDERICK HICKS

JOHN F. HICKS TO COMPETE FOR NATIONAL AWARD

John Frederick Hicks, a Dillard sophomore, will compete for a scholarship offered through Boys Clubs of America this spring. Hicks won the local club's First Boy of the year award given in December, and he will be entered in the 19th annual "Junior Citizen" program according to an announcement recently made by the executive director of the local club, Mr. Paul Shannon.

The national winner will receive $1,000. Each of seven regional winners will receive

Belk Foundation Offers Additional Scholarships

S. H. Hocutt, Jr. of Belk-Tyler Co., recently announced that The Belk Foundation has increased to 36 the number of college scholarships it will award to deserving high school students in 1965. Last year 30 scholarships worth $500 each were given.

The growing importance of college education, both for the individual and for his community, was cited by Mr. Hocutt as the reason The Belk Foundation offers the six additional scholarships. He stated the Belk group of department stores, which operate under an unusual plan of local control, take great interest in the citizens and area surrounding each store. Since each store is a dominant part of the business life in which it participates, it feels a responsibility to contribute towards the betterment of local people.

To accomplish this, The Belk Foundation was established as a memorial to Dr. John M. Belk and W. H. Belk, founders of the Belk mercantile organization. Many churches, colleges, hospitals and other institutions have been assisted by it. In 1958 The Belk Foundation began its scholarship program as an additional means of providing better opportunities in life, and the number of annual awards has consistently increased.

The scholarships, paying $500 to the college chosen by each winner, are available to high school graduates in the 18-state area served by the Belk, Leggett and Efrid department stores. All persons who were graduated from high schools since January 1, 1959 may apply, provided they ranked scholastically in the upper one-third of their graduating class and will be entering college as freshmen during 1965.

Winners of The Belk Foundation scholarships will be selected on the basis of each applicant's scholastic rating, school and community activities, financial need, character and interests, and potentialities for success in college and adult life. Each winner will make his own choice of college and courses of study.

All local high school seniors who are interested in applying for one of The Belk Foundation scholarships should contact S. H. Hocutt Jr. at Belk-Tyler Co. for additional details and obtain an official application form.

PRINCIPAL ATTENDS NASSP CONVENTION

Principal J. H. Wooten attended the National Association of Secondary-School Principals' Conference held at Miami Beach, Fla. January 16-20.

Mr. Wooten reports that it was truly an educational meeting, especially from the viewpoint that it included enough areas of interest and concern for all participants. His special interests this year are education of the disadvantaged secondary-school, curriculum, and scheduling.

Theme of the convention was "Secondary Education—America's Investment for the Future."

JAMES WHITE

1961 DILLARD GRAD HAS SUCCESSFUL SOLO FLIGHT

James White, a student pilot at A. & T. College, has reached the first round in his aim to become as astronaut.

White, a senior in industrial arts and an advanced cadet in the Air Force ROTC program at the college, has performed successfully his first solo flight after a low five and one-half hours in actual flight instructions.

Maj. E. S. Massenburg, in charge of the Flight Instruction Program at A. & T. College, describes White as a highly motivated flier.

Jeff Spencer, a flying instructor at the Greensboro-High-Point-Winston-Salem Air Port, under whom White received his training says, "He took to flying like a duck to water and was comfortable at the controls the first day he put his hand on the stick."

White a 1961 graduate of D. H. S. got the desire to fly early as a boy in Goldsboro, his native home, and the location of the Seymour Johnson Air Force Base. He received his pilot license February 4.

Special Program Marks Negro History Week Observance

Through music, prose and poetry a special program featuring contributions made to the world by Negroes was presented in the celebration of Negro History Week at Dillard, February 8-12.

During class assembly hours recordings of various choirs and speakers were heard. Included in the groups were selections by Leontyne Price.

At the regular chapel assembly hour, February 12 selections were given by students of the drama class:

James Weldon Johnson's Creation in pantomime by Gloria Coley, Dorinnia Hodges and Sylvia Hines, Lincoln's Gettysburg Address, Frederick Wiggs, John Batiste; Lines on Leadership-Curtis Phillips; I See and Am Satisfied—Esther Silver; Strong Men-Choral reading-Drama club.

Musical selections were "America," "Deep River," "Joshua Fit De Battle of Jerico," instrumental quintette, and the "Negro National Hymn."
