EDITORIALS

At last we are able to write "member of the North Carolina Collegiate Press Association" just above the editorial column. The Twig was made a member of this Association at the recent meeting in Greensboro. We thank the other Publications for their kindly words of welcome, and hope that we may prove more and more worthy of their good will. The Twig is small yet, but that fact leaves us all the more room in which to grow. Watch us do it!

"Do unto others as you would have them do unto you." Girls, let's apply this to our telephone system. The wretched way we have of never getting phone calls is a well known fact. Too often the persistent ringing goes unheeded or sometimes the person is told that the girl wanted has mumps or some other equally foolish answer. Perhaps you don't feel like running to the other side of the campus for the other girl's place. We shall certainly have to be "our sisters' keepers" until Meredith acquires more punctual and obliging maids.

The recent press convention at N. C. C. W. was a success in every way. The girls of N. C. C. W. were charming hostesses. Delegates were present from eleven colleges, only two being unrepresented. Besides the excellent addresses made by Profs. Lindeman and Hurley, and Mr. Chambers, inspiring reports were heard from each Publication represented, except The Twig, who was admitted into the Association at this meeting. The Meredith delegates received wonderful new ideas, some of which we are already putting in practice, others which we hope to materialize in the near future. For example, the Acorn has been revised and departments of Liberal Science and Art added. Meredith is glad that the next convention goes to Wake Forest, and is looking eagerly forward to next April when these amateur editors hope to come together once more.

ORGANIZATION OF A CHEMISTRY CLUB

The first meeting of the Meredith College Chemistry Club was called Friday afternoon, October 28th, for the purpose of electing officers and discussing plans for the year.

The officers elected were as follows: President, Ruth Couch; Vice President, Bernice White; Secretary, Joyner Beaman; Erna Moore and Bernice White were appointed to draw up a constitution and bye-laws for Club.

Among the various plans discussed for the year were those for a series of lectures, which the club hopes to have given by various chemists. The members, of which there are eighteen all coming from the classes in chemistry 2 and 3, are very enthusiastic concerning the work of their organization which is the first of its kind at Meredith, and it is with much interest that they look forward to the things in store for them.

The regular meetings will be held on the second Friday of every month.

tions of a Magazine." Summarized briefly these functions are: (1) to direct self-expression; (2) to promote interest in the national and international life; (3) to direct the college student into other fields of literature; (4) to enhance the opportunity for students interested in journalism.

He said that a magazine was the direct expression of the lives of the students. He thought it should contain articles on science, politics, business, art, music, and drama, and he stressed especially the following departments for a magazine: (1) editorials; (2) open forum; (3) literary essays; (4) short stories; (5) science; (6) art, including music, and the drama; (7) humor, provided the college has no purely humorous publication.

Next Mr. Lenior Chambers of the Greensboro Daily News addressed the convention, on "The organization, management, and method of work of a typical N. C. daily newspaper." He said a newspaper was a purely business enterprise. The work is divided into departments: (1) business; (2) advertising; (3) editorials; (4) news. He briefly outlined the work of each department. His talk was interesting, but not directly in line with the work of college editors.

Immediately following these speeches, reports were heard from the publications of the thirteen colleges represented, and the general business was considered. Under the latter "The Twig" was admitted into the

DAVIDSON HEARS NOTED ALUMNUS

Dr. Henry Louis Smith, alumnus and former president of Davidson, delivered a lecture on "Glimpses of English Life" here Monday evening Nov. 1st. Dr. Smith's account of his adventure while he was in London last summer was delightfully vivid. The Governor of Virginia sent Dr. Smith as his personal representative to present a replica of the famous Houdon statue of Washington to the British Government. Dr. Smith gave an interesting account of his entertainment.

DAVIDSON STUDENT BODY GOES TO CHARLOTTE

For the fourth consecutive year the Davidson student body has gone to Charlotte to back up their team in the annual game with N. C. State. A special train took three hundred loud-voiced rooters determined to show the Charlotte people that they are behind their team.

PLANS FOR ARMISTICE DAY AT DAVIDSON

An address by Rev. B. R. Lacy, D. D., Pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Atlanta, and an exhibition drill by the R. O. T. C. battalion will be the chief feature of the Armistice Day celebration. The Morning will be given over to speech-making. The drill will take place in the afternoon, each Company pulling a stunt.

association. Mr. Gamble spoke concerning the organization of "The Davidsonian"; and after a heated argument between Wake Forest and Elon, it was voted that the next convention, to be held in April, should convene in Wake Forest.

At three-thirty the visitors were the guests of the "Coraddi" staff on an automobile ride over Greensboro, returning to Lindley Park for a camp supper. At nine o'clock the "Carolinian" staff entertained in the Hut with a banquet in honor of the visiting delegates. After the banquet, a short business session was held, at which time the present officers of the association were reelected, with the exception of Miss Frances Boyd who was elected second vice-president, that office being vacant.

The following students were in attendance upon the conference: Davidson, J. H. McKeithan, W. A. Gamble, L. D. Mahood, C. Cornelison; Wake Forest, C. S. Green, J. F. Roge; Trinity, R. D. Ware; Lenoir, J. D. Tickle, W. C. Bolick; Elon, Lloyd Bray, R. Socrates Rainey; University of North Carolina, Mr. Turner; Salem, Isabel Spears, Rachel Jordan; Queens, Frances Boyd, Lois Rogers, Miss Florence Chubbuch; Greensboro College, Lenna Newton, Alta Debnam; North Carolina College for Women, Anne Cantrell, Hazel Mizelle, Emmeline Goforth, Maie Sanders; Meredith, Bert Moore, Katherine Brown.
