

POPS AND CRACKLES

Miss Rudiger and Miss Rhodes at the dinner table.

Miss Rudiger: "Oh! did you know that Mary Garden had actually bobbed her hair?"

Miss Rhodes (rather puzzled): "Where is she? Is she one of your pupils?"

Dr. Winston (on chemistry): "I have never seen but one person overcome with chlorine. He was not exactly gone, but we didn't like the way he had started."

D. Gower: "How did you know which way he had started?"

First Guy: "Why are women like angels?"

Second Guy: "Three reasons: First, they are always harping on something; second, they very often get up in the air; third, they never have anything to wear."

Beware

The Sophs give one word of warning to Madame Calga Bini's cat who took part in the Freshman program on stunt night.

Newish C. Privott: "Where are you from?"

Soph: "Ino."

C. Privott: "Crazy, I reckon. You do know, but I don't."

Soph: "Have you ever read Romeo and Juliet?"

Denmark Massey: "I have read Romeo, but not Juliet."

Evelyne Bailey (saying her prayers and thinking of Senior privileges): "All right God, goodbye."

Rosa Mann: "Did Paul write the book of Peter?"

Wanted! Permission to go to the "movies" long enough to know that it is reel and not roll.

When a girl gives a young man the marble heart he is justified in giving her the stoney stare forever after.

Leona Caldwell, watching the fire engine pass in the parade Friday morning: "Are they what they licked the Germans with?"

Ruth Falls (seeing a Senior ready for the church reception): "Goodness, you must be going to be in the evening (receiving) line."

E. Wagner (seeing a narcissus in bloom): "Oh look at that onion in bloom."

Rachel Wilkinson (translating in Latin): "Oh! I left out my 'nec'."

Gladys Sexton: "Miss Long, did Venus ever have any arms?"

ARMISTICE DAY AT WAKE FOREST

In observance of Armistice Day at Wake Forest, a monument given by the Class of 1920, as a memorial to the mothers of the Wake Forest men who gave their lives in the Great War was unveiled and dedicated. President Poteat made the dedicatory address and Miss Susie Holding, Sponsor for the Class of 1920, unveiled the memorial which was wrapped in American Service flags.

The face of the monument bears the dedication and the names of the twenty Wake Forest men who made the supreme sacrifice. The opposite side bears the Latin inscription, "Dulce decorum est pro patria mori."

PHILARETIAN SOCIETY

The Philaretian Literary Society held its regular weekly meeting on Saturday evening, November the twelfth. After the Chaplain's exercises, roll call, and minutes, an interesting debate was enjoyed. The subject was: Resolved, "That Capital Punishment Should be Abolished." The speakers were: Affirmative: Mabel West, Georgie Lee Howard. Negatives: Bessie Davenport, Reaford Hatcher. The judges decided in favor of the Negative.

On November 11th, Trinity won a decisive yet unexpected victory over Wake Forest by a score of 17-0. This is the most important game the Methodists have played in 27 years and it gave them a place on the football map of North Carolina.

State College lost to V. P. I. on November 11th., at Norfolk by a score of 7-3. Neither team scored during the first half, but in the third quarter N. C. S was able to pull it up to 3. However the tide turned in the last part of the 4th quarter when the Techs "nosed" in with a touchdown.

The Classical Club met on Thursday afternoon for its usual monthly meeting. After the business which consisted mainly of the discussion and adoption of the constitution, the following program was proceeded with:

Opinions of Wilson and Coolidge concerning the Classics—Daphne Owens.

Do New Yorkers Read the Classics—Mabel West.

Periodical Supporting the Cause of Classics—Janie Britton.

Then Ruth Livermon took charge and asked some very interesting conundrums. Some of the answers called forth much laughter and we all had a good time over them.

After singing "My Country 'tis of Thee", "Bubbles", and other songs in Latin, the ringing of the dinner bell adjourned the meeting.
