"I've got to go home and lick my boy."

"Why, I didn't know that was done now."

"It isn't, but he's taking a course in psychology, and he said he wanted to know how it felt."

"I can swear as well as my big brother."

"That's nothing! I can swear as well as my big sister."

Willie: "Pa, ma won't let me keep a goat."

Papa: "Quite right, one's enough in this family."

Teacher: "And what was Nelson's farewell address?"

Bright Boy: "Heaven, ma'am."

"Say, Mama, was baby sent down from Heaven?"

"Why, yes."

"Um. They like to have it quiet up there, don't they?"

Mother: "Who taught you to say that dreadful word?"

Little boy: "Santa Claus, when he fell over a chair in my bedroom Christmas Eve."

"Have you tried the latest society dance?"

"No, what's the name of it, please?"

"The Nervous Breakdown."

ASTROS HOLD FINAL MEETING

tary and treasurer of the society. Then in their proper order the other officers one by one, were called upon to promise trust and faithful work in accepting the responsibilities imposed upon them.

When all the promises were made before resigning the chair to the new possessor, our president made a beautifully touching little speech, not a farewell speech, as she said, but one that greatly impressed us nevertheless, striking hidden and responsive chords in our hearts.

As the new officers were taking their seats, the society arose and in a body, pledged its hearty support and cooperation in the work to be done during the next year. The president began her administration with a few well-chosen words, first thanking the retiring president in behalf of the Society for the unfailing zeal with which she had thrown herself into the business of the Society, and for the many services that she has rendered us; then, in a gracious and effective manner, she renewed her promise to the Society, and challenged us good-naturedly to help her out in keeping them.

Just here it was mentioned that Louise Mays had an announcement to make, an announcement concerning the prize offered for the best one-act play. The winner, Jo Cox, was invited to the platform and presented, with a beautiful Astro pin, while the Society madly applauded.

The program was concluded with singing the "Astro" song and yelling with great fervor and spirit, the "Astro" yell.

The meeting was then turned into an informal social gathering during which delicious lemonade and crackers were served.

Customer: "You don't seem very quick at figures, my boy."

New boy: "I'm out of practice, sir. You see most of the gents say, 'Keep the change'."

"Willie, what is the plural of man?"

"Men," answered the small pupil.

"And the plural of child?"

"Twins," was the prompt reply.

Preacher: "I'm glad to see that you come to church, Bobby."

Bobby: "I do now, but just you wait till I get older."

"Father, did you get licked when you were a boy?"

"Indeed I did."

"Then what's the use of trying it on me?"

"Willie, what are you doing with the oil can?"

"I'm oiling baby's tongue so he can talk!"

A little girl for the first time in the country, watched the farmer's wife plucking a hen. After a careful scrutinizing of the tedious process, she asked, "Do you have to undress it every night?"

Dr. Winston: "Who can name one important thing we have now that we did not have a hundred years ago?"

E. Purnell: "Me."

SPEEDERS' FIELD

(With apologies to John McRae)

In the speeders' field the poppies grow
Where speeders lie; and every day
Between the new graves, row on row.
Speeders still do not laws obey.
Terrors they are to other people.

Now they are dead. Short days ago
They lived; drove cars;
Broke the speed laws;
Raced and were raced;
And now they lie in speeders' field.

Observe the traffic laws and keep them;

To you from traffic cops, they're given.
Be yours to hold them high!

If ye break them,
Ye may die,
And lie,

In Speeders' Field.

—HIGH LIFE.

The highest capacity power cable in the world was stretched under San Francisco Bay recently. It covers a distance of eight miles from the shore of Richmond to Pier 41.

A monkey belonging to a family living in the fashionable Quai D'Orsay, Paris, trapped a burglar. When the burglar entered a clothes closet the monkey locked the door, and when the owner returned home the monkey proudly turned the prisoner over to him.

I called on my sweetie last night,
Her papa was out at the club,
Her mother was out at the theatre,
Her kid brother was out at a party,
Her kid sister was out with a chum,
The parlor lights were out—
She was out with another fellow—
I was out ten cents carfare.

"Do I bore you?" asked the mosquito politely, as he sunk a deep shaft into a man's leg.

"Not at all," replied the man, smashing him with a book. "By the way, how do I strike you?"—EX.

Ray: "That Reggie Heavydough actually refused to recognize me on the avenue. I suppose he thinks that I am not his equal."

May: "Ridiculous! Of course, you are! Why, he's nothing but a conceited dumb-bell!"—TOPICS OF THE DAY.

HEALTH HINTS

For Fat People: Eat Simply.
For Thin People: Simply Eat.

Dorothy Miller who had some knowledge of baseball took Gene Holland to a championship game.

"Isn't that fine?" said the first. "We have a man on every base."

"Why that's nothing" said Gene, "so have they."

SELFISH WILLIE

Willie, in a fit of gall,
Drank some wooden alcohol.
Willie died and Ma was pensive,
Alcohol was so expensive.
