every tone proving her complete absorption in the noble theme of her song. No less effective was the strongly emotional Galli-Curci, to whom the listeners gave their undivided attention as she sang "I Love Me." "Barney Google" was very "fetching." Who but Alma Gluck could have created in such a manner, sympathy for poor Barney. Miss Farrar drew from "You've Got to See Mama Every Night" its most exquisite harmony. All were stirred by the interpretation of "Yes, We Have no Bananas." The ladies were at their best. And, in the last number, Miss Sawyer ably accompanied them with her hawaiian strains.

And lastly! As the feast of music was ended, ice cream was brought in, the serving of which meant intense satisfaction to each and every guest.

authority that the afternoon, which had been all too short, was gone.

The trucks were soon packed with girls in whom the holiday spirit had by no means dwindled. The way home was made lively with songs and yells and as an extra treat the drivers turned down Fayetteville Street before going back to the college.

and the Student Government Association in making the honor system possible at Meredith.

Elizabeth Sawyer spoke of the necessity for a spirit of "give and take" in athletics, and for the maintenance of the Y. W. C. A. standards in sportsmanship.

Mabel Oldham in recounting the characteristics of the four-square girl stressed the fact that poise and social accomplishment come not so much from the class room work as from participation in extra-curricula activities. Here the challenge of the Literary Society was strikingly presented in its connection with the Y. W. C. A. as a training place for ability in public speaking.

Susie Herring showed that the individual girl is responsible for her personal salvation rather than her family, her friends, her social position, or any organization. On the other hand, she pointed out that an organization is able to clear up many difficulties which may arise.

INSPIRING CHAPEL PROGRAM BY IDEALS COMMITTEE

At the regular chapel hour last Wednesday, which is always a treat for the girls since Miss Zabriskie has charge, the Ideals Committee gave us a very entertaining as well as instructive program.

Mary Powell Josey conducted the devotional exercises, after which Pauline Patton told us in a very interesting and informal manner some things about our social life in which we are all interested. In her charming manner she took up the subjects of our social life here at Meredith, just how to act under all circumstances, what we should wear and when we are well dressed were discussed. Often we are in doubt about little seemingly insignificant things, but it is really these little things that count. If we would be considered well-bred and cultured, we must know these things. The Ideals Committee is the one to help us, and the interesting chapel talks, which are given us each week, are the best ways by which to instruct us.

RESULT OF EVOLUTION IS NEW ORGANIZATION

bouquet of valley lilies and bride's roses.

The bride had as her dame of honor Mrs. W. E. Stinson of this city, who was dame of honor at the bridegroom's mother's wedding. She wore an orchid georgette crepe gown, embroidered in pearls, and wore a jewel comb in her hair. She carried a bouquet of pink asters.

The maid of honor was the bridegroom's sister, Miss Ethel Hall of Benson. She wore a nile green taffeta frock, trimmed with silver lace, and silver slippers. She wore a silver band in her hair and carried pink asters.

The bridesmaids were: Misses Maude Stinson of this city, and Carmen Rogers of Creedmoor. They wore quaint frocks of rose taffeta, trimmed with silver lace, silver bands in their hair and silver slippers. They carried orchid asters.

John Dowd, Jr., was ring bearer. He wore a white satin suit. The bridegroom was attended by his best man, Mr. J. M. Maddrey, of this city.

The groomsmen were: Messrs. O'Neal Brady of Benson and W. L. Brien of Winston-Salem. The ushers were Messrs. J. L. Hall, Jr., of Benson and Vernon Goodman of this city.

The bride, who is the daughter of Mr. O. P. Badger of Oberlin, Ohio, has been making her home in Raleigh for the past two years. She was graduated from Oberlin College and studied French abroad. For two years she has taught French at Meredith College.

Mr. Hall is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Hall of Benson. He attended Wake Forest College and is a promising young attorney of Raleigh.

Mr. and Mrs. Hall are at home in this city, 809 New Bern Avenue.
