

ALUMNAE
WE ARE THANKFUL

The thing for which I'm most thankful for Meredith today is not her wonderful new home, spacious grounds and buildings and material comforts, although for these my heart sings a song of joy always—not her wonderful student body of splendid North Carolina girls, although they inspire me whenever I see them—nor yet her fine faculty members, for which I praise God, but it is for the great Christian spirit that abounds within her walls and that sends her daughters out to fire our State and many others with cultured Christian women, who wherever they go and in whatever work they engage hold up the high ideals of righteousness and make of their communities a better place in which to live.

VIRGINIA EDGERTON SIMMS, '04.

To those of us who daily go up and down the halls and beyond the four walls of Meredith comes the reminder of this season of the year that there is much for which we may be grateful. We have passed through the first uneasy, strange days in a new location, with buildings too fresh from the hand of carpenter and mason to give any impression of permanence. From an arid desert of dust in dry weather and a veritable marsh of red mud in wet, with na trace of living green except for the grand old oaks of the grove, the Meredith campus has been transformed as by the waiving of a magic wand. The severe lines of our brick buildings have been softened by the planting of evergreen shrubs, against which the bright colors of the flowers of faculty gardens have shown forth in splendor. Walks of crushed stone, leading in all directions, are a comfort to our feet and a delight to our eyes. The court is soon to wear a carpet of green, and the chug-chug of tractor gives eloquent promise of a green-sward that will flank the administration building on every side. On the west there are tennis and basket ball courts, on the east a new gymnasium; all of which contribute to the sum total of Meredith life and happiness.

GLADYS LEONARD, 1925.

The happy memories of college days; the blessed friendships formed then which have lasted through twenty-four years, reaching across miles and miles of land and sea and back again; for the increased appreciation of the fine and beautiful; most of all the fuller knowledge of our Master and the growing love for His service, the joy of realizing more and more "that in everything ye are enriched by Him"; all these and more fill my heart with thanksgiving for the privilege of having had four years at Meredith.

FAY JOHNSON FARMER, '07.

"What do we, as alumnae, have to be thankful for?" you ask.

Well, there are a great many things that we have to be thankful for; "New Meredith", for instance, and other material blessings. But the heritage of Meredith daughters for which they should be most thankful is not a matter of buildings nor of anything material. It is the Meredith spirit embodied in its leaders, Dr. Brewer, Mr. Ferrell, Mr. Boomhour, Miss Allen, and many others with whom we have had the high privilege of coming in contact. Theirs is the spirit and the faith that remove mountains. Let us trust that we have caught the spirit, and for it let us give thanks.

NOVEMBER

MATILDA HOLLEMAN

November's fields are bare and brown;
Her once clear skies are gray;
And piercing her winds which wail
and roar—
Their weird, mysterious lay

But old November brings the time,
Of thankfulness, joy, and cheer,
When pumpkins are ripe and the turkey fat
Must pay a fine so dear.

The log-fire crackles on the hearth;
It may be cold outside,
But, safe inside, we laugh and joke
And cheerfully abide.

Oh, June with all her roses fair
May seem the best of all
But for November's fireside cheer
My heart will always call.

THANKSGIVING SONG

SADIE RIGGS

Come, hasten away!
Come join in the joys of Thanksgiving Day;

The time of jollity and innocent mirth,
While Grandfather blesses the power
that has guided his hearth.

Come back ye youths to the old cabin door:

Come with thankful hearts as of yore.
Put now away every trouble and care,
To Grandmother's table (with no appetites small)

Her puddings and pies we will share.
See in the cellar apples, pumpkins and nuts

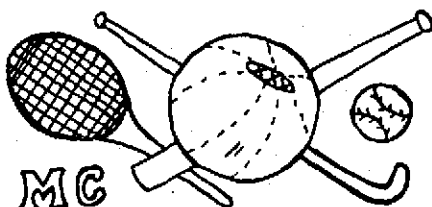

Come now and seize them without "ifs" or "buts"

When the feast is over, "Hurrah", we will say,

Hurrah! Hurray! it's Thanksgiving Day.

A student failed in an examination in all the five subjects he took. He telegraphed to his brother: "Failed in all five. Prepare papa."

The brother telegraphed back: "Papa prepared. Prepare yourself."
