

The widow of a farmer was being consoled by a neighboring farmer, who happened to be a widower, "Cheer up, woman," he said. "Ye're young yet and good-lookin'; an' you could soon get another husband."

"Oh, no, no," she replied; "who would take me?"

"Why, if I had a better pair o' boots on, I'd run away w' ye myself!" said the widower, gallantly.

The widow, lifting her face and wiping her eyes, said, earnestly, "I wonder would John's fit you?"

Mr. Newlywed—Here is a bill for a dress you seem to have bought some time ago.

Mrs. Newlywed—Oh yes, that is for the one you liked so well, the blue voile, don't you remember? Why, I wore it the night you proposed.

Mr. Newlywed (talking to himself afterward)—H'm that's going some, paying for the bait and hook you got caught on.

Autoist (driving on country road)—If I had run over that chicken then, we could have taken it along and had it for dinner.

Friend Wife—Oh, but I shouldn't think a chicken would be good to eat in case of a sudden death like that.

GIRLS ENJOY W. F. SOCIETY DAY

their brothers at Wake Forest celebrate Society Day. Two private cars with similar constituents followed soon in their wake.

A wreck, a ball game in which our noble hosts were decidedly the victors, a sumptuous banquet, four wonderful orations—a grand reception, and hosts unpassable—what greater excitement could one wish in the course of one all to brief afternoon and evening.

In spite of the delay caused by the wreck, our friends most graciously awaited us at the church and escorted us to the football played on Gore Field between Wake Forest and High Point. Wake Forest, needless to say, remained on top.

Society Day Dinner at six-thirty in the Williams and Robinson dining rooms was an enjoyable occasion on account of the hospitable words of welcome, the unique toast, and the speeches, as well as the sumptuous repast. Mr. B. T. Henderson gave the words of welcome. Dr. Brewer responded for Meredith and Mr. Gray for Louisburg. The following gave toasts:

Miss Madeline Elliot from Meredith in the Williams Dining Hall and Miss Lillian Odum in the Robinson Dining Hall.

Then followed four impressive orations in the auditorium. Assuredly, if all the men and women on this continent possessed the spiritual and moral ideals so earnestly and fervently expressed by Messrs. H. C. Hopkins, M. B. Cree, R. Paul Candill, and E. F. Parham, no foreign critic would ever again accuse America of being a country without a soul.

The orations was followed by an address on "The Unpardonable Sin in Education" by Dr. F. P. Gaines. This address was well in keeping with the spirit and thought of the orations.

The original subject, "Angles of Approach," as announced on the program President Gaines reported that several of our hosts had misread "The Approach of the Angels." This he flatteringly, wittingly interpreted to mean the coming of the Meredith and first six weeks the Freshman class has the privilege of electing permanent officers for the year. This is the privilege which they were exercising. There were very few changes in the officers, however.

The class of '31 has shown great wisdom in the choice of Sarah Briggs as a leader for the year. During her short stay here at Meredith, she has endeared herself to her own classmates and also to the other classes. Right at the first of the year, she showed her ability in writing by winning out in a contest held by THE TWIG. Since then, she has been a hard-working member of THE TWIG Staff. She has also had several articles and bits of poetry appearing in The Acorn the literary publication of the college, from time to time. Again, on November 5 at the annual "Stunt Nite" celebration she played the attractive role of a dutch boy in the Freshman stunt. Congratulations and best wishes, Sarah!

TRIO OF VISITORS IN CHAPEL SATURDAY

also. The chief import of his remarks was a public expression in behalf of the B. S. U's. of the entire state, of his appreciation for the hearty way in which the Meredith student body cooperated in making the recent Student Conference a success. Meredith girls are always ready to give the words of Wake Forest boys earnest heed, and Mr. Caudill found a very interested and delighted audience in the person of these admirers of Wake Forest.

As a final treat on that eventful morning, Mr. Blake, a representative of the Theodore Presser Music Co., sang for us On the Road to Mandalay, and Sleepy Hollow Tune as an encore. Mr. Blake has visited us previously and is one of our favorite singers. The exceedingly hearty applause which greeted his singing was good evidence of the warm welcome extended him by both faculty and students.

Louisburg girls and other lady friends. We appreciate the compliment and feign would answer such a description, though realizing the impossibility of such an undertaking.

The reception given in the gymnasium at nine o'clock furnished a fitting climax to the "end (aside from the accident) of a perfect day." The room was artistically decorated in the college and society colors. The music furnished by the Wake Forest band was wonderful. The punch and cakes were delicious.

The sponsors of the two societies, Miss Angie Dancey sponsor of the Euzelian Literary Society and Miss Mildred Vogler sponsor of the Philomathesian Literary Society were both beautiful and charming.

Wake Forest brothers, we thank you for the comfortable conveyances, the thoughtful arrangements made for our comfort, convenience and the glorious good times you extended to us. May you see many more happy Society Days.

To our President, deans and chaperones we extend thanks for making our trip so delightful and splendid in every respect.

TRIP TO DURHAM WEDNESDAY NIGHT

It remained for Madeline Elliott to give to that glorious, intent gathering the message that will be theirs throughout the thick and thin of this great campaign. She, not only told of the Students part, but also that of our loved faculty. Beautifully did she chose her every word. I wished that every Meredith girl could have heard her, but let us pledge anew our support (1) praying, through faith believing, (2) working, knowing that in due season the harvest will be ripe for reaping, (3) giving of ourselves—our substance—giving back to God that which is His.

It is almost impossible for one to quote justly the talks of Dr. E. Y. Mullins and Dr. Gaines of Wake Forest. They both spoke superbly on Christian Education and its widespread benefits. We cannot but agree. That as the old prophet said "Education of Youth is the foundation of the State," so the education of Christian youth is the foundation of both Church and State. It is our duty Meredith to give ourselves unreservedly to this great forward movement which well mean the salvation of a great majority of the youth of North Carolina—not only in this generation, but also for generations yet unborn!

THANKSGIVING DAY OBSERVED AT MEREDITH

wide awake and ready to jump up. 7:30—First Breakfast Bell. Most of the girls arrayed in Sunday attire and the grand prom to the post-office begins.

7:45—Last Breakfast Bell. Everybody "ready and waiting."

9:00—Thanksgiving Service. 10:00-1:00—Mothers, Fathers, Brothers and sisters arrive; Go to Pictures; Go to ride.

1:30—A real Thanksgiving dinner which reflects credit on Miss Welch.

2:30-10:20—Go to game, out to supper and date with "best" beau who is down for the occasion.

10:21—Come strolling in dragging one foot after the other, too tired to rush to the register, but still able to say "Oh, I had the grandest time ever."

As well as being Thanksgiving Day, this is our first holiday during this semester and will be the only one until Christmas holidays begin. Thus we are wishing for everybody, faculty, students, Mr. Grogan, the maids, dames—one and all the happiest Thanksgiving Day possible.

ALDA GRAYSON UNION WINS B. Y. P. U. CUP

der who will get it. Don't you hope we do?" you could almost hear some one say. At the close of the meeting, curiosity was satisfied upon the announcement that Alda Grayson had again won the cup. Come on, other unions, let's do better work. We must win that cup next time!

SOPH NIGHT OFF

What fun it was singing all the way to the S. & W. Cafeteria, and there picking out just what one wanted to eat. There were great times and much excitement as the girls walked up and down Fayetteville street. Then the State theatre which was showing "Les Miserables" proved most interesting. Those who had read this thrilling novel by Victor Hugo, knew how fine it would be. Those who had not read it had heard Miss Allen or some of the girls speak of it, so no one was disappointed. But the climax for all Meredith girls, came just before the picture when the orchestra played "Alma Mater."

After the picture, there was more promenading, then a drive back to Meredith, with a short stop to give a few yells for the State Sophomores. Upon reaching the college, the entire class hurried for the quadrangle where more yells and songs were given. Then a mad run through the dormitories with a sleepy but hearty good night, and "Soph Night Off" was over.
