

"Well, little boy, are you going to be President when you grow up?"
 "No, they have one already."

PATRONIZING HOME INDUSTRY

"Let us," said the alderman, "put our heads together and make a concrete road."

"Have you read 'To a Field Mouse?'"
 "No, how do you get them to listen?"

CURTAIN

Stage Manager: Lower that curtain and hurry up about it!

Stage Hand: But the act is only half over.

Stage Manager: Lower it, you fool; one of the living statues has the hiccoughs.

—Selected.

"Hey Mike," said a workman to the other atop, "don't come down that ladder on the north corner; I took it away."

Bride: What will I get if I cook a dinner like this for you every day this year?

Hubby: My life insurance.

The human brain is a wonderful organ. It starts working the moment we get up in the morning and doesn't stop until we get to class.—Anonymus.

Mother (at seven o'clock in the evening): Come, Ethel, it is bedtime. All the little birds have gone to sleep in their little nests.

Ethel (at five o'clock next morning): Come, mamma, it is time to get up. All the little birds are up, and the mamma birds too."

He: What do you say to a little kiss?

She: I've never spoken to one.

—Notre Dame Juggler.

"Could you pass the bread?"

"I think I can. I moved pianos all summer.

—Aggrievator.

"Iceland," said the teacher, "is about as large as Siam."

"Iceland," wrote Willie afterwards, "is about as large as teacher."

Dad: What is the proverb about the rolling stone?

Collegiate One: A revolving fragment of the Paleozoic age collects no cryptogamous vegetation.

May: Is your husband tight?

Rae: Is he? Say, every time he takes a penny out of his pocket the Indian blinks at the light.

Jean, aged three, out to tea, was puzzled when she saw the family bow their heads for grace.

"What are you doing?" she asked "Giving thanks for our daily bread," she was told. "Don't you give thanks at home, Jean?"

"No," said Jean, "we pay for our bread."—Orange and Blue.

Aviator: Wanna fly?

Lily Varser: You betcha!

Aviator: Wait, I'll catch you one.

ARISTOCRACY

Hi-hat (just back from shooting in Scotland): We had some wonderful shooting!

Dim-wit: Oh, yes! What'd ja shoot?

Hi-hat: Mostly pheasants.

Dim-wit: They certainly do give the lower classes a rotten deal over there.

OCH, AYE!

Haughty English Lord: I should think it sufficiently significant that in Scotland, oats are eaten by men, while in England they are fed to horses.

Young Scotch: Right. An' that accounts for the fine horses in England and the fine men in Scotlan', no doot.

INTERESTING FEATURES AT CHAPEL EXERCISES

audience and Mr. Breach was called back for several encores.

The new interest that has been taken in our chapel singing lately is something to be proud of. We agree with Mr. Breach that a singing school is a happy school.

ter. Receiving in the dining room, where delicious refreshments were served, were Elizabeth Harrelson and Bernice Borders. Stationed in the ladies parlor, and bidding the guests good-bye, were Mrs. James L. Webb, mother of Mrs. Gardner, Burnette Hunt and Elizabeth Hamrick.

The mansion was artistically decorated throughout with cut spring flowers. The library and dining room were dimly lighted by burning tapers, which lent enchantment to the scene. About one hundred guests called during the afternoon.

DR. CONNOR GIVES INTERESTING LECTURE THURSDAY

under the auspices of the Kappa Nu Sigma Honor Society. Each year the society secures some outstanding lecturer to deliver a lecture to the student body and friends of the college. This year they have been particularly fortunate in obtaining Dr. Connor, who is recognized as a delightful speaker as well as an eminent authority on history.

Preceding the address, the Honor Society held their annual banquet at the Carolina hotel. Only the members of the society and their guest, Dr. Connor attended. The present membership includes of the faculty, Dr. Charles E. Brewer, Miss Helen Price, Miss Nettie Herndon, Miss Mary Martin Johnson, Dr. Mary Lynch Johnson, Miss Ellen Brewer, Miss Mary Graydon, and of the student body, Iva Carroll, Hesta Kitchin, Marian Fiske, Evelyn Jolley, Frances Scarborough, Mattie Lee Eagles and Margaret Jones.
