

CLUB NOTES

Tomorrow's Business Women

Tomorrow's Business Women held its regular meeting at 7:00 in the "Hut" on Thursday, December 13. The meeting was in the form of a Christmas party. Arlene Foster and Alice Delbridge were in charge of the entertainment, which consisted of games, songs, and stunts. The sponsors were presented with Christmas gifts after which refreshments were served.

Colton English Club

The regular meeting of the Colton English Club was held Thursday evening, January 4 at 6:45 o'clock with Ruth Franklin, president, presiding.

"The Little Black Boys," a short story by Clara Laidlaw was read to the members by Miss Norma Rose. Jean Branch, vice president, was in charge of the program.

Members of the sophomore English section c were invited to the meeting.

Helen Hull Law Classical Club

On December 15, 1945 Dr. Helen Price entertained members of the Helen Hull Law Classical Club at her house. This was the "big" Saturnalia meeting. Everybody joined in playing games and "gamboling." After the program was given, dinner was served, and an examination consisting of knowledge of gods and goddesses was held. The book prize offered went to Ann Wallis.

Stuart Pratt Speaks

The Macdowell Music Club held its January meeting January 9, 1946 in the Rotunda. Mr. Stuart Pratt gave a talk on his work with Egon Petri during the past summer. His talks included a summary of Petri's life and plans for the next year. Mr. Pratt gave some very illustrative points as to Petri's true character which make him the "marvelous mimicker." A record of Franck's Chorale Prelude and Fugue played by Egon Petri was heard. Mr. Pratt also gave a discussion of the program to be given by Petri in January as one of the Civic Music concerts. Afterwards, an informal discussion was held.

Silver Shield

The Silver Shield met Thursday, January 10, at 6:45 in the Student Government Council room. The meeting was opened by Flora Ann Lee, president. After the secretary, Deleano Hall, read the minutes, a plan for improving the appearance of the bulletin boards in Johnson Hall was discussed. The group also discussed plans for working on a filing room and plans for the annual page of the organization.

Student League of Women Voters

The Student League of Women Voters met Friday, January 11, at 5:15 in the Game Room. After a short business session opened by the president, Amy Wyche, the meeting was turned over to Betsy Dell Maxwell, program chairman, who led the group in games. The party that followed was a New Year's party, chosen since the group did not have a party during the Christmas season. Refreshments, provided by Dr. Alice Keith, were served from a table covered with a white linen cloth with center piece of a silver bowl filled with pink azaleas. Dr. Keith poured coffee. Nuts, open face sandwiches, cookies, chocolate cakes, and pretzel sticks were served.

Counsellors

At 7:00 January 15, all freshmen and transfers met with their counsellors in Phi Hall. Miss Mary Lynch Johnson spoke to the group on study habits and preparations for examinations. The student committee on this unit were Martha Hamrick, chairman, Arlene Foster, and Susan Fleming. Miss Johnson was the faculty adviser.

The regular counsellor meeting was held at 6:30 Wednesday, January 9, in the Student Government Council room. Plans

Silver Shield Plans Filing Room Project

Record Room in Stringfield Will Hold Club and Society Records, Meredith Traditions

As one of its projects for the year, the Silver Shield is planning to begin a record or filing room in which will be kept data concerning the various college traditions and functions. The need for such a record room, where any student could obtain accurate information concerning the traditions and customs of a particular organization, has long been felt by the student body.

In the record room will be filed the traditions concerning Palio and a brief yearly summary of the class parades. Each year, a copy of the class stunts and a copy of the original songs sung at palio will be filed. The traditions concerning crooking, May Day, caroling, and commencement will be written for the files, and the traditional functions of the classes with the class songs will be compiled and kept. The different clubs will have a file-folder in which will be kept the club constitution, a brief history of the club, a summary of the club's activities for the year, and any other facts of importance. The societies will have a similar record.

The home of this record room will be the former maid's room on second floor Stringfield, which has been turned over to the Silver Shield for their use. The Silver Shield hopes to make the room attractive and usable.

A meeting of the various presidents of the organizations concerned will be held during the first week in February to make plans for the compilation of the material. The Silver Shield has stated that it will welcome from students any suggestions concerning the room.

It is hoped that this record room will answer for students those questions that are heard so frequently, such as: "Where is the class song? Who is supposed to have charge of this? What did they do in this case last year? What's this whole thing about anyway?"

for the February unit were discussed. The unit will be on student government and the honor system. The student committee includes Evelyn Straughn, chairman; Mitzi Roddick, Doris Allen, and Hazel Johnson. The faculty adviser will be Dr. Alice Keith.

The Kappa Nu Sigma Honor Society was organized in 1923. Its special aim is the promotion of scholarship at Meredith.

Sports Review

By RUTH MARTIN

OLDTOWN GIRL—35937—This is one of the registered horses at the Meredith College Barn. She is a two year old filly and is now being trained by Miss Boggess and Mary Esther Sadler.

Horseback riding, in it's second year at Meredith, has become one of the most popular sports on the campus. According to Miss Doris Peterson, Head of the Physical Education Department, there are now 185 girls at Meredith who have procured riding permits from their parents and who are thus in line to elect this sport for the spring semester.

Beginning last year with five horses, the college now has available fourteen horses that may be used in the regular class work. The largest class during the fall semester contained nine girls. This gave choice of horses and left some not being used at each of the classes.

Recently the college has acquired two registered saddle horses, and it is expected that they will be put into use right away. One of these horses is a ten year old gelding, and has been shown in the three gaited class in many horse shows. The other is a two year old colt that is now being trained by the girls. Most of the horses now owned by the college were bought in Virginia or Tennessee and are a good type riding horse.

Miss Elaine Boggess, riding teacher, is now making plans for the spring semester. These plans include a horse show for the latter part of the semester and several cross country rides that will take the girls out for picnic suppers. Miss Boggess has pointed out that the girls who took riding during the fall semester will be first in line to sign up for this sport during the spring semester. Since the afternoons in the spring are longer and the weather usually more favorable for riding, students are beginning to make an effort to get into these classes before the semester opens.

Of the girls now taking riding, many are beginners while others have had considerable experience with almost all types of riding horses.

TYNERS GIVE BUFFET SUPPER

At five-thirty o'clock, Sunday evening, January 13, Mr. and Mrs. B. Y. Tyner entertained the entire group of seniors, who have been doing student teaching this semester, at a buffet supper in their home at 34 Shepherd Street. Other members of the Meredith Department of Education were also invited guests. Miss Lila Bell poured coffee. Harry K. Dorsett entertained the group with contests, and a session of conundrums was enjoyed. Nineteen guests signed this hostess's guest book.

This Collegiate World

Pie-baking might seem to be a strange hobby to the average student on the campus, but to John Rowlett, North Texas State Teacher's College, Denton Texas, freshman, it's a combination of hobby, hard work, and a means of earning expenses for attending college.

Employed as baker in the kitchen of a local grill, Rowlett shoves a white baker's cap on the back of his head and produces the formula for butterscotch and chocolate pies which he says, are his specialties.

"Aw-w, there's nothing unusual about baking pies," drawls the boy who baked an estimated 16,000 pies during the past year. "Besides helping pay my way through college, it's fun."

Rowlett begins to assemble the ingredients that go into the making of 24 pies—all that the oven will hold.

"I began taking short orders here four years ago," he explained, "but a year later I began learning to bake. I've been working entirely in the kitchen ever since."

By this time, 24 pie shells are rolled out, and Rowlett industriously measures and mixes huge amounts of dry ingredients with the milk. "I expect I'll soon be giving up this job for service in the navy, but I plan to open up a bakery when I get out," Rowlett said. "You see, two of my brothers in the service are bakers, and we plan to go into business together."

With a few twirls of beater, several dozen egg yellows are beaten and expertly blended into the mixture. Rowlett stirs two batches of filling as they cook—one butterscotch and the other chocolate. Even though he makes almost every kind of pie, he makes most of these two because "they're the kinds most often wanted by the customers."
